FOUL PLAY SUSPECTED

Lumber Mill Owner Who Disappeared Had Money

WAKEFIELD, N. H., June 24.—The disappearance of Charles A. Fernald, lumber mill owner and expert sawyer, from the lumber camp of William H. Willey, 2d, of this town, where he was employed as a sawyer May 23 last, and the fact that no trace of him has been obtained since, gives rise to the suspicion of foul play.

It was not until last night, however, that the Carroll county authorities were asked to take a hand in the search for the missing man and were notified of the alleged absence of two other men from the camp during the two days following Fernald's disappearance.

Sheriff Johnson of Union was visited last night by Mr. Willey, who told his story. A conference was also held with the Wakefield selectmen.

Fernald was about 36 years old and is understood to have a wife and son in Massachusetts. Up to last March he had been cutting off a large wood lot of his own in Pleasant valley, Wolfboro.

He then stored his mill on the premises of Mrs. Ann Young of that town and was engaged by Fred Sherburne of Sanford, Me., who is associated with Willey in the lumber business and owns the mill used in their operations, to act as sawyer on the lots near the Willey residence in South Wakefield.

About 20 men were employed on the job, 11 of whom boarded and lodged at the Willey home. Although the men were employed by Sherburne, Willey handled the funds and paid the men.

A reporter who called on Mr. and Mrs. Willey yesterday at their home obtained a statement from them concerning the disappearance of Fernald. They claimed that Friday evening, May 26, Fernald had some trouble with George Chandler and Ed. Wilson, men employed on the job and lodged at the Willey home. Mr. Willey said the talk occurred in the sitting room, where all could hear. The men wanted Fernald to loan them some money, and the latter refused. Fernald had been making good pay, averaging $4 to $4.50 a day, and he had saved a good part of it, which he always carried with him. He is thought to have had more than $500 at the time.

Trouble is Alleged

Fernald's refusal to lend them money was resented, the Willeys claim, and Chandler and Wilson threatened violence and finally the men clashed. They were separated by Mr. Willey's son, Bernard.

As they were parted Chandler is alleged to have threatened Fernald. Wilson took no part in the encounter. The next day the three men worked together, but they would not speak to each other Saturday night the trouble again arose, but it was only a wordy quarrel.

On Sunday Fernald accompanied the elder Willey to church at Sunnyside and to Sunday school. At 7.45 that evening Fernald left the boarding house to go to the mill to make preparations for starting the week's operations. There he gave orders to firemen to have the engine "dried up" ready for work at 7 the next morning and started back toward the house, which was only about a quarter of a mile distant. He has not since been seen.

Mrs. Willey said that before he started from the house she said to him: "You won't be gone a great while, will you?"

"No," replied Fernald, "I'll be back in about 25 minutes."

Fernald left his trunk unlocked and all his things in his room, just as if he had intended to return that evening. It was quite dark when he left the house.

A few minutes after he started, the Willeys allege, Chandler and Wilson went out, going toward the mill. They returned later to their room. At breakfast there was talk about Fernald not returning to the house, but no one had any information about him.

Later in the day Mrs. Willey asked Chandler where he supposed Fernald was. Chandler, Mrs. Willey declares, remarked carelessly, "Oh, he is down in the mud hole looking over his account." It is rather summary in that section, but the remark seemed strange to Mrs. Willey. Both men had been paid their wages of the week before on Monday morning.

Wilson, who drove a team, went to work, but early in the forenoon hitched his horses from the runners in front of the currier stable, drove the horses in and leaving them harnesses left camp. He left his trunk at the Willey house and it is still there. Chandler remained around the place until Tuesday, but did not lodge or take his meals meantime at the Willeys.

He was in and out of the house during the time and Tuesday noon he took dinner there. Chandler left the place Tuesday afternoon and has not been heard from since.

Mr. Willey and his son have conducted a quiet search for Fernald ever since he disappeared.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

"Is Marriage a Failure?" a howling, screaming farce comedy, will be the star offering in next week's bill at the Merrimack Square theatre. There will be other good numbers, but the presentation of this play by Mortimer Snow & Co. will top all others. The piece is a decidedly good one, containing many happy lines, funny situations and a continuous strain of rich humor that is sure to keep audiences in an uproar from start to finish. Mr. Snow is as clever in comedy as he is in the more dramatic offerings in which he has appeared, and Miss Anderson is also unusually clever in light offerings such as "Is Marriage a Failure?" The staging of the play will again be featured by the care for detail and richness of effect so that in all the presentation should certainly score heavily. If you are anxious for a laugh, a series of laughs, then don't miss next week's show at the Merrimack Square.

Other numbers on the bill are: "Blanche Aldrich, known as America's Vesta Tilly, a male impersonator and quiet change artist who compares favorably with the best of her line. Miss Aldrich sings and talks herself into a laughing fit and keeps the audience up to her eyes in the funniest situations. The popular Lowell girl whose singing has won her many friends, will again be heard in the newest songs, and Lou Morgan and Harry West, modern Dutch comedians. The photo-play "Goethe's World Famous 'Faust'—the place made known through the efforts of the late Lewis Morrison. This film is about 2000 feet long and is in two parts.

Sunday's sacred concerts, which are given at 3 p. m. and at 8 o'clock in the evening, will include the following well known entertainers: Ash and Carr, Austin Walsh, Taylor and Campbell, and three others. The motion pictures will be the kind that are approved by the state officers.—Adv.

THEATRE VOYONS
Richard Harding Davis has produced several of the most true to life bits of fiction of present day writers, and today the Theatre Voyons shows "Van Bibber's Experiment" from his pen, and those who appreciate cleverly drawn characters should see this picture. Van Bibber is a club man with his own ideas of how to reform a housebreaker, with the result that a fortune is turned into a happy and prosperous farmer working for his wife and his child at an honest trade. There are other interesting pictures on the bill, notably "The Railroad Raiders of 1862" depicting the attempt of the Andrews raiders when they tried to capture an engine from the Confederates.—Adv.

LAKEVIEW THEATRE

Today the last two performances of "The Man of the Hour" by the Jos. J. Flynn Stock company will be given. This play has proved itself one of the best dramatic offerings ever seen at the lake, and the people have supported the company, the large audience this week proving that a good stock company with good plays will pay at the Lake resort.

Commencing on Monday evening the stock company will present for the first time at popular prices that well known society comedy drama, "Raffles the Amateur Cracksman." This play has had a run of two years at one theatre in New York and has toured the larger cities for two years. The play deals with the higher class society of England introducing the Scotland yard detective force. Woven in the play is a sweet love story and also some of the best comedy scenes ever written. The play will be presented with all the detail and new scenic effects. There will be a matinee every day excepting Mondays.—Adv.

REPORTED TO BE GOOD IN THE "DRY" STATES
WASHINGTON, June 24.—Approximately 20,000,000 gallons of liquors annually are shipped by express, principally from mail order houses, direct to consumers in prohibition states. This startling fact was developed yesterday in an inquiry conducted by the interstate commerce commission into proposed changes in express classifications which resulted in an advance of rates on packages containing liquors. The commission held that the express requirement that liquor containers should be packed in corrugated paper cartons was reasonable, but that the charge for transportation based upon arbitrary weights—15 pounds for a gallon of whisky—was unreasonable, and that the discrimination against stone jugs also was unreasonable.

JUBILEE CELEBRATION

Austria Has Not Sent Any Representatives to Italy

ROME, June 24.—The celebration of the Jubilee of Italian Unity, with the exhibitions in Rome and in Turin, has emphasized the strangeness of the situation between Italy and Austria. Emperor Francis Joseph and the government of the Dual Monarchy, alone of all the rulers and great powers, have sent no representation to the Italian celebrations and it has been only in the most recalcitrant manner that Austria has participated in the International Exhibition of Fine Arts here, while she was the only nation which did not take part in the Exhibition of Industries and Labor of Turin. This is significant when one considers that Vienna and Rome have been allied as members of the Triple Alliance for nearly thirty years. Nor can it be said that Austria's attitude is inspired by a desire to spare the feelings of the Vatican, as Austria in 1870 was the first country to congratulate Italy over the fall of the Temporal Power, and the relations between the Austrian government and the Holy See have been, recently, strained. The attitude of Austria is due to the ancient antagonism between the two countries, which is reaching a more acute stage now that the health of Emperor Francis Joseph is failing, and the reigns of the Dual Monarchy are practically in the hands of the Crown Prince, Archduke Francis Ferdinand.

The old emperor has witnessed during his long reign greater political and family catastrophes than any other living sovereign, with the exception, perhaps, of King Manuel of Portugal. He went from the defeat of Sadova to the loss of Lombardy and Venetia, from the incurable infirmity of Empress Elizabeth to her murder by an anarchist, besides that yet unexplained tragedy which led to the death of his only son, Archduke Rudolph.

Such a succession of sorrows induced the venerable monarch to be strongly opposed to his country participating in any conflict, and the one which might have been the most probable was avoided through the alliance with Italy and Germany, and the great respect that the aged ruler inspired throughout Europe. His successor will not command the same influence, so that the disappearance of Francis Joseph may have a capital influence in the foreign policy of Europe, it becomes doubtful that he will maintain the present attitude of submission to Germany, while his intemperate clericalism may revive in Austria the "Loss of Rome" movement, and cause a rupture with Italy, which would not please even the Vatican, as Pius X is averse to any event which might revive an acute stage between church and state in Italy, as is proved by his mild attitude in connection with the present celebrations of Italian unity.

The attitude of the Vatican towards the celebration of the Jubilee of Italian Unity has been so far characterized by a most dignified reserve, as while it cannot approve of manifestations which commemorate the fall of the temporal power, it does not desire that anything should be done which might embitter the relations between church and state here, which, since the difficulties of the present pope began, have been characterized by a spirit of mutual tolerance which in some cases has even reached cordiality. Therefore the excessive zeal of certain bishops, who being so far from Rome have not an exact grasp of the situation here, do not meet altogether with the approval of the Vatican. During this year of Italian Jubilee the Vatican has decided to suppress all kinds of pilgrimages, being inspired by the same idea of preventing conflicts between the adherents and those of opposite opinions, and is also most strict in not admitting to private audiences with the pope, people who are connected with the Italian celebrations.

Tradition is a tenacious thing and not easily overcome especially in the countries of the Old World. Two thousand years ago the triumph of a Roman Emperor was not complete unless it included some wild beasts. In these days in Rome, Pagan customs have been adapted to Christian ideas, and so the Monarch, while he no more goes in procession with his kings of the forest, receives them as gifts—and hands them over to the zoological gardens.

In this manner the new ruler of Abyssinia, Lij-Jasjo, has shown his deference towards the king of Italy by sending two magnificent lions, a buffalo, and a zebra. They were first taken to the garden of the palace, where the lions roared, the buffalo bellowed and the zebra—made his own kind of noise. The racket roused the neighborhood, to say nothing of the King and Queen and their little ones. It may be stated without fear of contradiction that the only ones pleased were the children, who wept loudly when the beasts were taken to the zoo, Prince Umberto being heard to remark that he did not think that was the way to treat the wishes of a future king!

Lawyer Russell Passed Away After Arrest

DERRY, N. H., June 24.—The arrest of attorney Lester W. Russell Thursday night had a tragic ending yesterday morning. The lawyer, after having passed a restless night, died suddenly. The attending physician, Dr. C. F. Newell, attributed the end to heart disease.

Russell was arrested by Deputy Sheriff James S. Webster. He was charged with forging the name of Elias E. Quimby to a check for $2000 on Derry national bank. Russell was acting as attorney for Quimby, the latter being executor of the large property of the late Mary Leach of Derry Village. The check was dated last March and the money was drawn at that time.

The sheriff made the arrest and soon after Russell was taken violently ill. His physician requested that he be not looked up, but taken to his home and kept in charge of the sheriff.

His wife's father, Mr. Lynde of Melrose, Mass., came here and was ready to lend financial assistance.

REAR-END COLLISION A DOSE OF ACONITE

Sixty Young Women Had Miraculous Escape From Injury Taken by James W. Brackett of Maine by Mistake

STONEHAM, June 24.—Sixty young women employed in the Harvard knitting works in Wakefield and living in Woburn, had a miraculous escape from serious injury if not death last evening in a rear end street car collision on Main street near Lindenwood street in the Farm Hill section of this town. As it was a dozen girls sustained cuts and bruises and all suffered more or less from shock.

Those injured the most were: Agnes Doucette of Stoneham, contusions to the hip.

Nellie Comer of Woburn, lacerations to the elbow.

Nellie Judge of Montvale, severe contusions to the body.

Agnes Whiting of Montvale, severe contusions to the body.

Theresa Connolly of Woburn prostrated by shock and hysteria.

May Foley of Woburn, shock and hysteria.

Nellie Flaherty of Woburn, shock.

May Cogan of Woburn, shock and fainting spells.

There were several others who were also quite badly injured, although they managed to get to their homes with the help of friends, but they were later obliged to call physicians to attend them.

The 60 girls were packed in a small box car of the Boston & Northern street railway company, which runs as a special to take them to their work in Wakefield and back home at night to Woburn.

At 5:15 p. m. the car had just stopped at the corner of Main and Lindenwood streets to leave a passenger. A regular Wakefield and Stoneham car was following closely behind, both cars being bound for Stoneham square. The regular car had acquired such unusual momentum that the motorman was unable to stop it and it crashed with much force into the rear of the car crowded with girls.

The vestibules of both cars were smashed, but the motorman of the rear car jumped and escaped injury.

The girls screamed and became hysterical. Some fainted and others jumped through the windows in their anxiety to escape. Many were cut by bits of broken glass. The noise and impact of the two cars and the screams of the injured were heard blocks away. Within a few minutes the square was thronged with excited persons, all anxious to ascertain if any of their own relatives or friends were dead or injured.

Every physician within five miles was summoned by telephone. Dr. Joseph H. Kerrigan of this city and Dr. J. A. O'Leary of Wakefield were the first to arrive.

Citizens helped the physicians. Mr. R. H. Cogan of this town came with his big touring car and made two trips to Woburn, carrying a dozen of the injured girls to their homes.

It was said that the motorman of both cars were men of limited experience. The local authorities found it difficult to obtain reliable information concerning the accident, but it is being investigated thoroughly. After the wreck was cleared away the damaged cars were sent to the repair shops.

DIPLOMAS PRESENTED At Immaculate Conception School

The commencement exercises of the Immaculate Conception parochial school took place at the school hall last evening and were largely attended. The program of exercises as published in yesterday's Sun was excellently carried out, the numbers contributed by the smaller children being particularly well done. The clergymen of the parish were present and the diplomas were presented by Rev. Lawrence F. Tighe, O. M. I., pastor of the Immaculate Conception church, who made an eloquent address to the graduates.

Those who received diplomas to enter high school were:

GAGNON GAVE BAIL

Lowell Man Arraigned in Suffolk Co. Court

Joseph Gagnon appeared in the Suffolk county court yesterday and through his counsel, James E. O'Donnell, entered a plea of not guilty to a complaint charging him with conspiracy. Probable cause of guilt was found by the court and he was held under $2000 for the superior court. Gagnon is the person who it is alleged was one of the parties who assisted in tripping "Rocky" Snow out of over $8000 on a fake wire tapping machine.

WIFE USED A BAT

Husband Had Asked for Early Breakfast

BOSTON, June 24.—The refusal of Mrs. Wm. J. Carter of 181 Shawmut avenue to prepare a slight repast for her husband and a friend early yesterday morning and her subsequent assault on him and his friend with a baseball bat, resulted in her being sentenced to the house of correction for a term of three months by Judge Sullivan in the city police court yesterday. The woman appeared from the sentence and was held in $500 bail.

The sentence was on a charge of intoxication, the husband of the woman and his friend refusing to prosecute her on a charge of assault and battery.

Carter, with a friend, Edward Barry by name, arrived at the house on Shawmut avenue at 3 a. m. and asked Mrs. Carter to prepare a breakfast.

She arose from her bed and seizing a baseball bat assaulted both men in such a manner that they eventually were taken to the city hospital by officers from the East Boston street station, where it was found Carter had received a severe scalp wound and Barry was suffering from contusions and abrasions of the body.

Neither of the men appeared in court yesterday, both being confined to the hospital from their injuries.

THEATRE VOYONS

VAN BIBBLER'S EXPERIMENT RAILROAD RAIDERS OF '62 A DELAYED PROPOSAL BEARDED YOUTH

PHILIPS, Me., June 24.—James W. Brackett, chairman of the Maine commission of inland fisheries and game, and editor and owner of Maine Woods, a weekly news and sporting paper, died early today from heart trouble and the effects of a dose of aconite taken by mistake late last night. Dr. W. A. Cragin, the oldest druggist in town, was taken critically ill, but may recover. He also drank the same liquid.

Mr. Brackett had been attending a high school graduation reception and leaving before it was finished called at the drug store of Dr. Cragin about 10:30 o'clock. He and Dr. Cragin had a drink together at the soda counter but instead of taking the liquid they supposed, aconite was turned on. Mr. Brackett drank two ounces and the druggist an ounce and a half. Mr. Brackett was affected at once and rushed across the street to the residence of Doctor Hopkins. An emetic was administered and his stomach was cleared immediately. Soon he was feeling as well as ever and talked and joked with the physician. He had, however, been troubled with a weakness of the heart and about 2:30 the heart unexpectedly stopped beating and he was dead.

In the meantime Dr. Cragin waited on one or two customers who noticed that he acted queerly and closed his store at the customary hour. He then called at Dr. Hopkins' home and rapidly grew worse. He was a very sick man today. He is about 58 years old. Mr. Brackett, through his connection with the fish and game commission, was one of the best known public officials of Maine. He was first appointed a member of the board on January 25, 1905, and chairman by Governor Fernald in place of Chairman Carlton of Winthrop, who had been at the head of the commission for many years.

GREAT NAVAL REVIEW

King and Foreign Representatives See Great Battleships

PORTSMOUTH, England, June 24.—This was the day of ships and sailors. The king and queen and the foreign representatives at the coronation left the capital and came here for the great naval review off Spithead. Fine weather put the finishing touches on one of the most magnificent displays of the week. Their majesties, accompanied by the official envoys of other countries, came from London in a special train. The king wore an admiral's uniform with a ribbon of the Order of the Garter. The prince of Wales was in a midshipman's uniform. The queen, Princess Mary and nearly all of the royal ladies were dressed in navy blue. With their majesties were all the other members of the imperial family.

Many special trains were run from London, carrying Indian princes, peers and peeresses, members of parliament, lords of the admiralty and diplomats. The regular and excursion trains arriving during the morning added great numbers to those already gathered here from all parts of the world.

Seventeen nations were represented in the vessels moored in Spithead roadstead in the English channel between the mainland and the isle of Wight. Of the number ten were battleships of the dreadnought class from the British navy and one visiting dreadnought, the German Von Der Tann. First, however, in size and armament, was the American battleship Delaware.

The British dreadnoughts were the Colossus, the Neptune, the Hercules, the Collingwood, the St. Vincent, the Vanguard, the Bellerophon, the Temeraire, the Superb and the Dreadnought. With these were the four British cruisers of the Invincible class, the indefatigable, the Indomitable, the Inflexible, and the Invincible.

Other foreign naval powers sent vessels of the pre-dreadnought type. France was represented by the Danton, Japan by the armored cruiser Kurama, Austria by the Radetzky, Italy by the armored cruiser San Marco, Russia by the armored cruiser Rostislav, Spain by the cruiser Reina Regente, Argentina by the cruiser Buenos Ayres, Chile by the cruiser Chacabuco, Sweden by the armored cruiser Filgia, Turkey by the cruiser Hamidieh, China by the cruiser Hai Chi, Denmark by the armored cruiser Olfert Fischer, the Netherlands by the armored cruiser Jacob Van Heemskerck and Norway by the armored cruiser Eidsvold. Greece sent the armored cruiser Georgios Averof. In addition to the official representatives of the 17 visiting nations there were secondary vessels from Japan, Italy and Chile.

Various types of warships added to the British units of dreadnoughts and invincibles made the total British contingent 170 ships.

All the vessels in the roadstead, including the foreign warships and excursion steamers with spectators, were moored in lines supplemented by shorter lines of submarine and torpedo boats. The fleet occupied an area of about 18 square miles.

TYNGSBORO SCHOOL

Held First Public Graduation in 100 Years

Although the Winslow grammar school has been teaching the young idea how to shoot for over 100 years, never until yesterday afternoon had public graduation exercises been held, and the innovation, suggested by Miss Bernice Sherburne, the principal, drew a large and thoroughly appreciative audience. The school hall was prettily decorated with native flowers and ferns, while an excellent program was being given. A class of 17 received diplomas. The program of exercises was as follows:

"Over Hill, Over Dale," Mendelssohn, chorus; "Our Town," Lawrence Thayer Brown; "To a Waterfall," Bryant, Gladys Lorman; "My Old Kentucky Home," chorus; "One Hundred Years Ago and Now," United States in 1811; "Bertrand's Regiment," "United States in 1911" (written by Marie Knight), Hazel May Warley; piano solo, "Wedding of the Fairies," Johnson, Fern Hazel Upton; "Herve Riel," Browning, Gertrude Ethel Ford; "Four American Inventors," "Eli Whitney," Thomas Mark McGrath, "Robert Fulton" (written by Howard McLean), Claude Adelbert Bell; "Samuel Morse," Lydia Bertha Lorman; "Alexander Bell," Percy Reno Ford; piano solo, "Zikher Strains," Watson, Ralph Stuart Harlow; "Lily Bells Ring," Mildred Edith Baldwin.

HUMANE HELPERS

The president of the society is Gertrude Pattillo and owing to her energetic efforts the affair held last night was a grand success and a neat sum was realized. The attendants at the different tables were as follows: Fancy table: Gertrude Pattillo, Violet Hands, Verda Leach, Theresa Woodman; candy: Muriel Leach, Helen Munn, Marjorie Gilmore, Greta Darling, Marjorie Murphy; ice cream: Edith Baldwin, Miriam and Portia Murphy; grab table: Mae Burger, Gladys Ferris, Elizabeth Fulton; spy seat: Verda Slipp, Peanuts: Res-sie Baldwin.

A BRASS BAND

TO BE ORGANIZED BY CERCLE ST. LOUIS

Providing there is no delay in the filling of the order, it is expected that by the middle of next month, West Centralville will be provided with music by a band of 30 pieces, for the members of Cercle St. Louis have sent in their order to Woonsocket, R. I., for the complete equipment of a band, and the instruments are expected in this city by July 17.

A well attended and enthusiastic meeting of the circle was held last night in the members' quarters at St. Louis school. President Hector M. Donald occupied the chair, and after considerable business had been transacted, and several new members initiated, the question of forming a band was again brought up for discussion. After every one present had been heard on the question, it was voted to purchase 30 silver instruments.

Cercle St. Louis was organized May 4, 1910 with about a dozen members. It occupies large rooms in St. Louis school, and the members are all active and hard working young men. Their chaplain is Rev. Fr. R. A. Fortier, and he is the one who conceived the idea of forming a band among them. Several of them are able musicians, and a number of them are members of the local union of musicians.

The officers of the circle are the following: Hector McDonald, president; Leo Beaulieu, vice president; Ernest Trudeau, secretary; Rodolphe Dupuis, assistant secretary; Adolphe Lequin, honorary president; Antonio Trudeau, collector; J. A. Cloutier, treasurer.

There is a neat little sum in the circle's treasury, but not quite enough to purchase the instruments, for they will cost $1000. In the near future a fair will be given to raise funds for the said purchase, and the following committee has been appointed to look after the arrangements of an entertainment: Adolphe Lequin, Antonio Trudeau, J. A. N. Cloutier and Leo Beaulieu.

"FETE CHAMPETRE"

PROMINENT SPEAKERS TO ADDRESS THE GATHERING

Everything is now in readiness for the "fete champetre" to be given at Washington park on July 3 and 4, for the benefit of Notre Dame de Lourdes parish. The plans were laid out by the Rev. Fr. J. B. A. Barette, O. M. I., curate of the parish, and are being carried out by different committees who are pushing the thing along in great shape.

The opening of the fete will take place on Monday, July 3 at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, and the festivities will be carried on till midnight. Several speakers will be heard on the opening night among them, Hon. Alphonse Desjardins of Levis, Que., who will give the outlines of "La Caisse Populaire," a bank now being organized in nearly every parish of the state. Mr. Desjardins gives his lectures under the auspices of the state of Massachusetts. The program for the evening will consist of selections by the Lowell Independent band, speeches, automobile driving, etc. Rev. Fr. Barette and announce that firecrackers will not be allowed on the grounds during the festivities.

BOARD OF POLICE

GRANTED THREE TRANSFERS TO LIQUOR DEALERS

The board of police met in special session yesterday afternoon and granted minor transfers to Maurice O'Donnell, Andrew F. Houch and The Joyce company. The majority of the changes were for bulkheads or the changing of entrances and were of minor importance.

SOCIETY OF FRIENDS

HELD FIRST ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 24.—The first anniversary celebration of Quakers in America was held today when the Society of Friends commemorated the beginning of the New England yearly meeting 250 years ago. The yearly meeting is an annual gathering of the governing board of the church, embracing the territory east of the Connecticut river. The principal address at the exercises was delivered by Professor Edward C. Moore of the Cambridge divinity school, who spoke on "The religious discoveries of George Fox." Governor Pothier represented the secular interest in the anniversary and Mary Mendenhall Hobbs of the North Carolina yearly meeting and Isaac Sharpless of the Philadelphia yearly meeting also participated in the program.

Following the example of Roger Williams, who came to Rhode Island after his banishment from Massachusetts, the persecuted Quakers fled to this state and recently-discovered records show that in 1661 they held their first meeting in Newport. These meetings have been continued every year, alternating at Portland, Me., and this city. Providence was chosen as the meeting place, as Newport, where the first gathering occurred, could not provide adequate lodging facilities at this season.

JUDGE MORTON

HANDS DOWN DECISION AGAINST THE HAVILAND HEIRS

BOSTON, June 24.—Judge Morton, in the supreme court yesterday, decided that the heirs of Henry Haviland had failed to show he was married to his first cousin, Mary M. Haviland, and that they were not entitled to a share of a trust fund which had been left by her father, Thomas Haviland, to go to her heirs in case she left no issue. Her father died in 1873 and her death occurred in 1886. The heirs of Henry Haviland claimed the share which he, as husband, would get as a statutory heir. They claimed the first cousins were married in 1854.

Judge Morton said there was no evidence tending to show under what circumstances the marriage took place and that the only evidence of their relations was from an interested witness. He said there was no evidence that they saw each other from the time of their separation until her death, and refers to the fact that she made no claim upon him and that he did not come to her funeral. He points out that not at any time during the 13 years he survived her, did he make any claim in regard to her estate or assert in any way that he was her husband.

CONDITION IS FILTHY

Merrimack Packed With Sewage Between the Bridges

City Engineer Kearney is holding his nose high in the air and it is not because of any false pride but because of the filthy condition of the Merrimack river. He made an investigation of the sewer outlets into the Merrimack river and he hasn't recovered from it yet. Mr. Kearney found a most disgusting and nauseating condition of affairs in the river between Pawtucket Falls and Hunt's Falls and between the Centralville bridge and the Centralville bridge. The Merrimack river is one continuous mess of filth and mud accumulated in some places six feet on the river bottom. On the outlet pipe of one of these sewers at a particularly filthy place he found a number of children fishing while at another place equally bad he saw children bathing.

As a result of his investigations he will take the committee on sewers over the territory and they will petition to have the outlets extended into the channel of the river. The outlets of the Centralville and Pawtucket streets, in Hunt street, enter the river and there are three feet from the shore and do not reach the channel, but is ponded there and remains practically all the time. The sewer that serves Pawtucketville enters the river at the foot of Sparks avenue on a shoal, while the sewers of Camp and Bowever streets enter into stagnant water. There is considerable bathing and fishing done in this locality, and the city engineer believes that if the public health would be protected both should be stopped and the outlets extended into the stream.

THE LOWELL SUN SATURDAY JUNE 24 1917

GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS WHO WILL SAIL FOR PANAMA JULY 6

WASHINGTON, June 24.—After years of discussion throughout the country and of debate in both houses of congress the work of giving military defense to the Panama canal will soon be actively under way. The Panama canal and the details of its fortification will receive the close study of Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson in July, when he will see the great engineering work for the first time. He will sail from New York on July 6 on a tour of inspection. Incidentally he will stop at Havana to view the ruins of the battleship Maine. He also will visit Porto Rico to inquire into questions of sanitation and the present method of choosing municipal judges. Gen. Leonard Wood, chief of staff of the army, will join the secretary during his inspection of the canal in order to discuss the question of fortifications. The secretary will also be accompanied by Mrs. Stimson and Gen. Clarence E. Edwards, chief of the insular bureau of the war department.

HORSE INJURED

ANIMAL CUT UP FRANKS IN MARKET STREET

The smooth paving in Market street near the Bigelow Carpet mills and opposite the wholesale establishment of F. M. Dills & Co., was treated to a coat of blood yesterday afternoon and a spirited but not very level-headed horse supplied the blood.

The horse was attached to a grocery wagon and was standing near the store of F. M. Dills & Co. A weight fellow got his foot over the strap to the weight. Then he started to back and the first thing he came in contact with was an automobile. The driver of the machine got out of the way in time and the horse, then thoroughly excited, swung to the sidewalk near the Carpet mill. A baby carriage containing a baby was standing there and onlookers feared, for the moment, that the baby would be killed, but the horse turned again and collided with a big delivery wagon belonging to F. M. Dills & Co.

The wagon was loaded and the horse, in some unexplainable way, got his leg caught between an iron brace and the hind wheel. His position was perilous as well as painful and it was necessary to jolt the wagon in order to release him. His leg was badly torn and he bled profusely from a face wound. The horse was attached to a wagon owned by Kenneth McKinnon, the Lawrence street grocer. The horse is owned by A. R. Humphrey, the livery stable keeper in Gorham street and Mr. McKinnon was trying to get him out. The animal was taken to Dr. Sparks' stable in Worthen street and there it was stated that his injuries were painful but not serious.

THE LORIMER PROBE

Millionaire Hines the Central Figure in It

WASHINGTON, June 24.—Testimony in the reopened Lorimer investigation before the senate committee here points more and more to Millionaire Edward Hines, the legislative agent and prominent member of the so-called lumber trust, as the man who more than any other can enlighten the committee regarding the inside story of Lorimer's election. Hines was active at Springfield when the fight for Lorimer's election waged hottest, and it has been asserted that he exerted influence in Washington to have the blue eyed, blond haired, Chicago political trader retained in his seat in the senate when previously under fire. George W. Hinnan of the Chicago Inter-Ocean stated before the committee that he had borrowed $1000 from Hines within the last four months. Hinnan is Lorimer's intimate friend and his chief defender among newspapermen of power. Hines will shortly be put on the witness stand by the senate committee. He is now in Washington, waiting to be called as a witness.

DAMAGE OF $50,000

Caused by Fire in Lumber Yards in Lynn

LYNN, June 24.—Fire broke out in some unknown manner in the lumber yards of O. B. Brett Co. near the Railroad station on the Boston & Maine pier in the tenement houses, mostly foreigners, were thrown into a panic. It was with great difficulty that the police helped them remove their belongings to the street. At 2:30 the fire in the lumber yards was under control. The entire fighting force of the city was called out by three alarms.

BACTERIA IN MILK

Board of Health Discussed Question With Milk Dealers

Bacteria or bugs in milk was the subject of quite a lengthy and interesting discussion at city hall yesterday afternoon when the board of health and five milk dealers met to talk the matter over. The dealers were J. C. Fox, Joseph Chenelle, Robert F. Carson, Amos P. Best and Charles A. Frost.

Mr. Osgood, inspector of milk, told of the increase in bacteria in the milk that the dealers are selling. He said that the number of bugs had increased eight fold and in one instance the count was 500,000,000 to the cubic centimetre. The dealers couldn't account for the increase in bugs except that the raisers supplying them might be a little negligent. Mr. Best thought it would be a good idea for the board to send notes to the raisers.

Mr. Osgood said he had looked into the milk rooms of the five dealers in question and he said the trouble was evidently not with these men, but probably came from some raiser or raisers who were not sufficiently careful in caring for their milk. One such raiser would be apt to hurt the milk supplied by several others. He said that the increase in the infant mortality rate during the summer months was undoubtedly due to poor milk. He cited the instance of seven years of age in a New York hospital. They were divided into five groups, an equal number in each group. One group was fed on certified milk, which held 10,000 bacteria. None died. Another group was fed on pasteurized milk, holding 50,000 bacteria. Two per cent of these died. Another group was fed on non-sterile milk, having 300,000 bacteria to the cubic centimetre. Ninety per cent died. And still another group was given store milk from cans, milk which held from five to fifty millions of bacteria per cubic centimetre. Twenty per cent of these died. Mr. Osgood believed that these tests told truthfully the whole story about milk. In the 12 years prior to the adoption of a stringent rule regarding bacteria in milk the death rate of children in Rochester, N. Y., had been 30 per cent in excess of the rate since the rule was enforced. He also said that in Lowell official records kept by the board of health showed that 35 per cent of the deaths of children under the age of five years were caused by diseases of the digestive organs. He believed that the real key to the situation is now in the hands of the raisers of milk. If the milk is properly cared for the first two hours after it is mixed there will be no danger from it. The hands of the man who does the milking should be kept clean. In closing, Mr. Osgood said he hoped that the time would come when the department could hire a milk inspector and give him an automobile to scour through the country with. Speaking of tests made of milk taken from raisers, samples showed 500,000 and 5,000,000 bacteria to the cubic centimetre. This was altogether too high and endangered the health of those who used it.

NO. CHELMSFORD HIGH

Miss Gertrude M. Quigley Receives Diploma

The annual graduation exercises of the North Chelmsford high school were held last evening, and although there were disappointing features of an unavoidable nature they only served to deepen the sympathy of all present for the lone graduate, Miss Gertrude Marie Quigley, the charming and talented daughter of ex-representative William J. Quigley, who arose from a sick bed to be present at the exercises. Miss Quigley was to have read an essay and then deliver the valedictory. On account of her illness Miss Ethel Louise Richardson read the essay, acquitting herself most creditably. Miss Quigley attempted to read her own valedictory but after starting was obliged to discontinue. That she is one of the most popular misses in the village was evidenced by the wealth of floral tributes received by her from admiring friends. Another source of great disappointment was the absence of Miss Ethel Warley who was to have delivered a reading but who was absent by reason of a visit of death to her home. Much sympathy was expressed for both young ladies. Miss Quigley, the only graduate this year, is but 17 years of age. In addition to her other accomplishments she is a clever musician on piano and organ, officiating as assistant organist at St. John's church while she is also the possessor of a beautiful voice which is being carefully cultivated. The hall was prettily decorated with flowers and greenery, the national colors and the class colors of blue and gold, while the audience taxed the capacity of the building. The program as carried out was as follows:

AT EDSON SCHOOL

Savings Bank Scheme Proves Big Success

There are some wise and thrifty boys and girls at the Edson school, according to the reports from the savings bank scheme at that school. Up to 18 weeks ago all the grammar schools in Lowell had their savings banks except the Edson school and this was not wondered at, because the children who attend the Edson for the most part are the children of working people and would not be expected to have as much spending money as others whose parents are well-to-do. The scheme is to encourage children to save their money and it is being worked with great success in this city. Eighteen weeks ago the Edson school took up the scheme and now leads all the schools of the city in the amount deposited, showing a total deposit of $899, an average of about $40 per week for the 18 weeks and the books show 150 depositors.

GIRLS ACCUSED IN STOKES CASE CHARGED WITH ATTEMPTED MURDER

NEW YORK, June 24.—Ethel Conrad and Lillian Graham, the two young women implicated in the shooting of Millionaire W. J. D. Stokes in their apartment, have been held under $5000 bail each by Magistrate Preschl on a charge of attempted murder preferred by Mr. Stokes. The girls must appear for examination before Judge Preschl July 6 at 10:30 a. m. in the First district court. The magistrate ordered the two young women transferred to the Tombs, they having been since their arrest at the West Side court. When Miss Graham was asked about the case, she said: "Of course, I am rather tired out. Nevertheless, I expect to be out very shortly, and I believe we will get bail in a couple of days." In the affidavit in which Mr. Stokes makes the charge of attempted murder he states that "each of the girls threatened to take deponent's life and to kill deponent if he would not accede to their demands." The affidavit further states that Stokes grasped Lillian Graham's hand with the revolver and that she called out to Ethel Conrad: "Ethel, you agreed to kill him if I didn't. Get your revolver!" Stokes continues in the affidavit that Ethel Conrad ran into an adjoining room, returning with the revolver and fired three shots at him, one of them hitting him.

Des Moines Charter In Force In 133 Cities

AMERICAN CITIES

Many Prospering Under Commission Charter

While the commission charter is under discussion here, it may be well to give an idea of how many cities are working under it at the present time and what the results are.

Up to date no fewer than 133 cities have adopted the Galveston-Des Moines system of commission government, and the success in every instance has been so surprisingly great that there is small question of the adding of at least 100 more cities including some very large cities to the list before the close of 1911.

List of Standard Bearers

Here are the cities already under the banner of political decency. They are located in twenty-seven states and aggregate at least 2,500,000 population:

Alabama—Birmingham, Montgomery, California—Berkeley, Modesto, Monterey, Oakland, San Diego, Santa Cruz, San Luis Obispo, Vallejo, Colorado—Colorado Springs, Grand Junction, Idaho—Lewiston.

Illinois—Carbondale, Clinton, Decatur, Dixon, Elgin, Hillsboro, Jacksonville, Keokuk, Moline, Ottawa, Pekin, Rock Island, Springfield, Spring Valley, Waukegan, Pittsburg, Iowa—Burlington, Cedar Rapids, Davenport, Des Moines, Fort Dodge, Keokuk, Marshalltown and Sioux City, Kansas—Anthony, Abilene, Coffeyville, Cherryvale, Caldwell, Council

Grove, Dodge City, Emporia, Eureka, Girard, Hutchinson, Independence, Iowa, Leavenworth, Kansas City, Marion, Newton, Neodesha, Parsons, Pittsburg, Topeka, Wichita, Wellington, Kentucky—Newport, Louisiana—Shreveport, Maryland—Cumberland, Massachusetts—Gloucester, Haverhill, Lynn, Taunton.

Michigan—Harbor Beach, Port Huron, Pontiac, Wyandotte, Mississippi—Clarksdale, Hattiesburg, Minnesota—Fairbault, Mankato, New Mexico—Roswell, North Carolina—Greensboro, High Point, Wilmington, North Dakota—Bismarck, Mandan, Minot, Oklahoma—Ardmore, Bartlesville, Duncan, El Reno, Enid, Miami, McAlester, Muskogee, Oklahoma City, Poteau, Sapulpa, Tulsa, Wagoner, Oregon—Parker, South Carolina—Columbia, South Dakota—Aberdeen, Canton, Chamberlain, Dell Rapids, Huron, Pierre, Rapid City, Sioux Falls, Vermillion, Yankton, Tennessee—Chattanooga, Memphis, Texas—Arlington, Austin, Beaumont, Corpus Christi, Dallas, Denison, Fort Worth, Galveston, Greenville, Houston, Kennedy, Marble Falls, Marshall, Palestine, Port Arthur, Port Lavaca, Utah—Salt Lake City, Washington—Spokane, Tacoma, West Virginia—Bluefield, Huntington, Parkersburg.

Wisconsin—Appleton, Eau Claire.

Means Burial of the "Boss."

The whole plan is beautiful in its simplicity, but the finest stroke of all is the complete wiping out of the unspeakable "boss."

The governmental unit is the municipality, and it is making itself felt through government by commission.

Run Like Business Firm.

The new mode of securing an honest and efficient transaction of municipal business resembles the ordinary mode of conducting great industrial, financial and transportation companies.

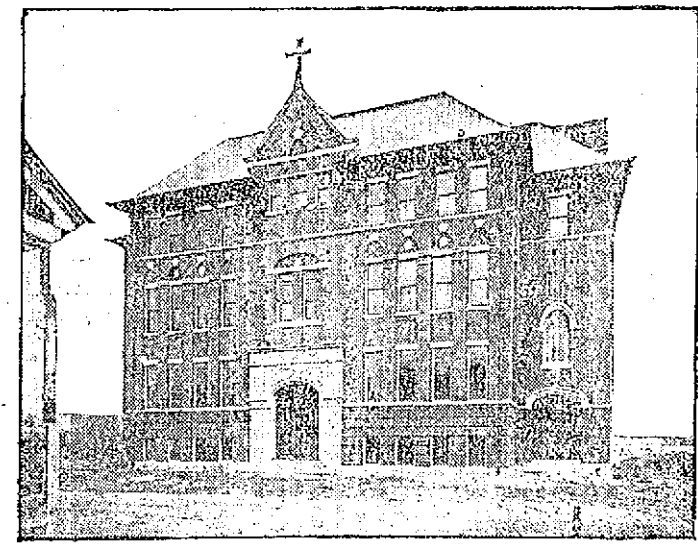

The city government is given into the hands of five men, three of whom, under the original charter, were appointed by the governor and two elected by the people. The supreme court has since decided that this appointive clause was unconstitutional, and all five are now elected by the people.

This in brief is what is known as the "Galveston plan." It went into effect in 1901 after its flood disaster. But Des Moines, catching the value of the plan in 1907, started in on a plan that included the initiative, referendum and recall, and so many cities have followed along that Galveston has lost a little of its thunder.

The pictures above show more than a hundred thousand words could do what has happened to make of Des Moines a city in which a man who prefers bathtubs to beers can bring up in health, happiness and decent surroundings his precious babies.

Each number was well rendered and many of the young performers received flowers. A very pleasing number on the program was the piano selection by three charming little misses, Camille Lebrun, Rosalba Cloutier and Grace Bertrand. Their ages vary from five to seven years, but despite their youth they captured the audience.

After the rendition of the program, Rev. J. N. Jacques, pastor of the parish, in a neat speech delivered the diplomas and prizes to the following graduates: Elzear Dionne, Laura Trudeau, Alice Ouellette, Wilfrid Bouchard, Elmer Lacoste, Donald Dupuis, Ruth Lagasse, Rosa Ward, Eva Belleville, Fleur Ange Brousseau, Angeline Breault, Irene Renaud, Rene Hamel, George Lemire, Napoleon Lemire, Rene Dion, Edith Dupuis, Charles Bousquet, Antoinette Chaput, Annette Asselin, Oscar Gervais.

to mention were distributed to the pupils.

After the presentation of the diplomas, etc., an address in French and one in English was given by Miss Ruth Lagasse and Mr. Wilfrid Bouchard respectively.

SUMMER SCHEDULE ON B. & M. GOES INTO EFFECT MONDAY

The new time table of the Boston & Maine railroad which will go into effect Monday next, has a number of changes in the running time of trains between Lowell and Boston. Many of the trains will leave from two to five minutes earlier than at present, some of the present trains will be discontinued, and others will be added. The more important changes are as follows: On the southern division the 8:45 morning train to Boston will be discontinued, and the train formerly leaving at 8:55 will leave at 8:50. The morning trains between 2:45 and noon will all leave earlier than heretofore.

Twenty-One Graduates Got Diplomas Last Night

The graduation exercises at St. Louis' school were held last night in the large school hall in Boisvert street. The affair was one of the prettiest ever held in that building, and it will long remain in the memory of the 21 graduates as well as the large attendance. The Sisters of the Assumption who are in charge of the school spared no time in training the children, and indeed their efforts were well repaid, for the program was on an elaborate scale and well rendered too.

Among the guests present besides the parents and friends of the pupils were: Mr. Arthur K. Whitcomb, superintendent of public schools, Mr. Frederick A. Wood, principal of the Greek Catholic school, Mr. J. Ad. Caron, editor of "La Tribune" of Woonsocket, R. I., Rev. Frs. J. N. Jacques and R. A. Fortier, pastor and curate, respectively of the parish, and many others.

The hall was beautifully decorated with streamers of the national colors and the stage was a mass of potted plants and flowers, and the electrical effects among these decorations were splendid.

The entertainment program was started at 8 o'clock sharp and consisted of the following numbers:

Music, trio, "Grand Galop de Concert" by Herbert, Misses G. Lefebvre, A. Collin, Mlle. A. Soular, Mlle. A. Brousseau, E. Dupuis, L. Cote and M. J. Thibault, Mlle. A. Barrette, E. Dupuis, M. Delorme, M. E. Gervais.

WOMAN'S VIEWPOINT

MOST of the little quibbles which concern questions of taste are still conducted by the sex which has the better opportunity of reaching the ears of the majority. When any one or anything is worth denouncing the task is rarely allotted to a woman. Whatever may have been granted to feminine intelligence and capacity of judgment, the time has not come when it could be fairly said that women are established and recognized as a critical body. There are few, if any, forms of public amusement which are controlled by feminine authority. Hardly any developments in the arts that entertain are subject in the first instance to the approval of the sex to whose taste they are intended to appeal quite as much as to that of man. But this is not to say that questions of taste are decided with thoughtless ungallantry by those who seek to appeal to the world which desires to be interested and amused.

On the contrary, we are frequently told that books and plays are now increasingly written with a view to feminine approval. Pictures are painted in the hope that they will be bought by the husbands of the women they delight, and even the more material requirements of the pleasure seekers are catered for with the recollection that "she, too, will be there" when their excellence calls for admiration. This is, of course, flattering.

Being, on the whole, rather amiably disposed than otherwise, women have become accustomed to recognize such considerations with perhaps greater appreciation of the motive than the achievement. It might certainly seem ungracious if the sex for whom these pleasures even surprises, are prepared were continually to call attention to their errors and shortcomings from the feminine point of view. A very little reflection must show that the position is in some cases bound to create embarrassment. The old idea of "something for the lady" in its modern development remains in many ways rather pathetic in women's eyes. It is for this reason no doubt that they prefer to accept with a feeling of gratitude what is being done for their amusement, pleasure and edification.

Possibly an unforeseen result of this attitude is now making itself felt. We are beginning to hear of the effects of women's "influence" on public entertainments of several kinds and not in terms that suggest its wholly happy outcome. It is now, however, that women are to be held up as rulers of taste. Having played no active and creative part in designing and making general amusements, those qualities which begin to displease are attributed to the feminine section of the public. Woman is, among other things, to be made the scapegoat where questions of taste have become questionable through masculine administration.

FRILLY FROCKS AGAIN.

The return of the rows of little frills at the hems of gowns for the summer season is already apparent. It is some time since this once most popular treatment was permitted.

Lovely Frocks For Midsummer Fete Wear

JWELED TRIMMINGS

WHEN very simple styles are in fashion, as they have been for some months past and will be all through the summer months, it follows naturally that our gowns must be decorated with very handsome and artistic trimmings. It is interesting, therefore, to note that importers who have been noted for their exclusive novelties are now showing some exquisite bead trimmings, suitable either for afternoon or evening gowns, as well as lovely jeweled buttons and other accessories which give a note of distinction even to a perfectly plain costume.

The bead trimmings worked on wide or narrow bands of net are in lovely combinations of color, especially in the oriental effects, which are having a great vogue in Paris just now. Some of the designs are carried out in glistening beads, while others are in white china beads or dull wood beads, and sometimes silk embroideries are introduced into the pattern.

Girdles and hanging ornaments in antique gold or oxidized silver form another interesting feature of trimmings, and there are tassels, balls and acorns to match for millinery and other purposes where small hanging ornaments are effective. Antique galleons can also be bought by the yard, and there are gold and silver laces of every imaginable width at popular prices.

Handsome jeweled buttons set in oxidized silver are in great request this season, especially in sapphires blue and ruby red, the coronation colors, which are very much in evidence. Real tortoise shell buttons are extremely fashionable in Paris, and there are some novelties in wood and pearl buttons for tailor made costumes. Wooden beads for girdles and trimmings are offered in every imaginable color, and metal and glass beads are also a specialty.

For frocks and blouses of thin fabrics there are insertions of the new fillet lace, with motifs of different shapes and sizes to match, so that a scheme of decoration can be carried out all in the same design. The fashionable wide braids for morning dresses and plain tailor made are also offered in great variety in black and various colors.

Lace nets with threads of tinsel in them, now so much used for yokes and undersleeves, are sold by the yard, and there is also a very attractive collection of wide shoulder scarfs in satin, chiffon and net, very handsomely trimmed at the ends.

NO MORE "WOMAN HATERS."

As a masculine profession that of "woman hater" is heard of far less frequently than was formerly the case. One might be almost inclined to wonder what has become of all the enemies of womankind if it were not for the possibility that they now conduct their business under another name. The woman hater, no doubt, was as fearsome a person as his name suggested, but at least he had the merit of fighting under colors which he meant to be true.

thing with each washing, and the same is true of all the crapelike fabrics.
CATHERINE TALBOT.

TRIMMED SAILOR HATS.

The big flat sailor hats, with brim slightly turning up all round or just a coupon at the side, look very pretty with a graduated "wreath" of silken pompons in any color or shade—much newer than silk or satin flowers or bands of velvet. These pompons can also be made of clipped feather or marabou.

THE WASH RAG HAT

Designed by Ora Côté

THE wash rag hat! Yes, my lady, blends so well with the fashionable colors. The dull surface of the towel, which is used in cream, plain white and deep ecru, has a tendency to make the complexion look well, as the smooth glazed straw some way fall to do. To make the wash rag hat choose any wire frame that suits your face and cover it with a fine Turkish towel, of heavy pile. Trim the hat with an upstanding bow of velvet. The model hat was garnished with royal purple velvet. This simple trimming makes it easy to renew the covering of the hat whenever it becomes soiled.

JETTED EVENING GOWN

THE craze for beaded material is exemplified in almost every branch of the couturier's art. The elegant evening dress shown here is literally loaded with jet. The skirt, which is of soft white satin, is veiled with broad, edged nylon, crossed by broad bands of jetted net. The arrangement is such as to give a slender effect to the figure. The upper part of the bodice is of lace, with bands of net in appropriate patterns. Loops of jet heads and jetted ornaments are scattered over the costume, while beaded aigrets adorn the hair.

The revival of jet is of course due to the fact that the English court has been in mourning, and jetted gowns are worn not only by elderly and middle-aged beauties, but by fair young beauties, who realize the quaint charm given to their particular styles by these somber hued gowns with their subdued glitter and the soft jangle of the beaded fringes and loops that thicken wherever they walk like so many tiny bells of jet.

It is used in second place, no matter how many yards go into the pattern. A simple lingerie frock may be picked up on the Rue de la Paix for about 700 francs ($140). If the frock is made to order or trimmed with a great deal of fashionable Venice or Irish lace the price may easily run up to $300. One of the most beautiful frocks turned out in Paris this year is the embroidered voile and lace model pictured. All the embroidery on this frock was done by hand in Japan, the material having been sent there and returned for the finishing of the costume in Paris. Real Irish lace is cleverly combined with the embroidered voile, lace and embroidery blending exquisitely together. With this frock is worn a gay little lingerie bonnet of white val, shirred on a pink ribbon. The shape of the bonnet, ungathered is a huge disk, the narrow val edging being sewed round and round like straw on a plaque. The embroidered net frock is less expensive, yet charmingly pretty, the net being in the fashionable ecru tone, with embroidery in white. The lining of thin silk is in the pale ecru tone, and the hat and flower cluster at the belt are in shades of tan, mauve and rose red.

The picture containing two figures shows two charming summer afternoon frocks. That on the standing figure is of voile, delicately embroidered with pink and white beads and pale pink cord couched to the fabric. The embroidered motifs follow the lines of the frock very gracefully, and these lines are emphasized by black silk cord couched along the edges of the embroidery. The tunic falls over a cluny band, below which is a hem of pink satin. On the seated figure is a smart linen frock in pale green, with Bulgarian embroidery in pastel shades of pink, green and rose. The smart lingerie gown is no longer simply white. Embroideries of every hue are added to their loveliness until even the so called tub frocks are doubtful quantities, for absolutely fast colors, so far as colored embroideries are concerned, are impossible to find. Not only is fading something to be guarded against, but there is the danger of shrinkage. The cotton voiles and marquisettes invariably lose some-

DECORATIVE LIVING ROOMS

SIMPLICITY and space are the first things to remember when furnishing a dining room. Harmonious tones might be extended even to the very flowers which decorate the tables and to the shades of the lamps. If there be ornaments they had better be few and good. Everything ought to be arranged to give individuality to each piece of furniture. The Japanese are never guilty of overcrowding, and they bring out their treasures and exhibit them singly in order to accentuate that beauty which would be lost in juxtaposition to other things of equal attractiveness.

A dining room may be oppressive if its warmth of decoration is excessive. In many rooms of moderate size with massive tables and sideboards and heavy draperies the tapestry of the chairs, the rich coloring of the carpet and the decorative wall paper have the effect of compressing and of enveloping. There seems no air to breathe, no space, no height, and yet the things may be harmonious, the colors in good taste. All is not in proportion, and somehow the effect is wrong.

The drawing room of the past was a room relegated to ghosts, for the dining room was often used as the sitting room as well. The vivid blue, green and red rugs were incased in holland covers. Indeed, they were far less conspicuous than on high days and holidays, when this most uncomfortable room was in general use.

However dainty and delicate the modern drawing room is, it is at least habitable and comfortable. It is generally a room of delicate harmonies and pretty decorative things. We are not nearly conscious enough of the cheering and restful effect of pink. A creamy carpet in which a rose pattern is plentifully displayed, with a cream-toned paper having a rose garland frieze, would be a good background for a few pieces of Sheraton furniture. The ideal drawing room ought to contain armchairs which are comfortable as well as elegant, and there can never be too many cushions. Ornaments and pictures ought to be few and distinctive.

Carefully carried out, an empire treatment of white and gold is a charming decorative scheme for a drawing room. There are shades of white which can give the effect of warmth and color. There is the old world drawing room also, with chintz covered walls and chintz covered chairs and old furniture which can be so delightful. Both the drawing room and the dining room are rooms devoted to general use. It is in one's own particular room, whether it be bedroom or boudoir, that individuality is developed. Girls might be encouraged when quite young, to think for themselves and surround themselves with artistic and beautiful things for their own special sanctuaries.

CHARMING MANNERS

NOTHING plays a more important part in a woman's career than charm, yet nothing is more elusive or more difficult to describe. We know it when we meet it, we feel its influence; but, alas, if we do not possess it we can hardly hope to achieve it, for charm is a gift of the fairy godmother, one of the most precious of her gifts and one of the rarest. Youth and even health vanish with the passing years; riches have wings and too often fly away; beauty, we know, is but skin deep, but charm will last a lifetime.

If, however, we cannot get the vital spark, the real thing, we can still have nice, pleasing manners. Of course those who are born and bred in a certain atmosphere know instinctively what to do and what to leave undone. No one can be so rude or so "crushing" as your grande dame when she chooses, though no doubt she would say that she does not choose; that the unpleasant necessity is forced on her by circumstances. The ideal good manners, however, are largely tempered by the milk of human kindness, and, though the woman of the world should be dignified, she need not be rude.

It must be owned, though, that this is not an age of ideal manners. Very many people who ought to know better allow themselves to be very rude to those they do not know or whom they consider outside their own narrow circle. Then, too, they indulge in habits which not long ago would have been considered a shocking breach of good manners. Thus they put their elbows on the table even at parties; they all talk at once, and, as to cultivating a soft and gentle voice, it is quite the fashion to shout at one's friends as if they were all deaf.

Repose of manner was considered at one time essential to the well bred woman, but this is an ideal long assigned to the past. Every one fidgets in these days; no one has time to sit still or to listen for more than a minute at a time without being bored and showing it.

In fact, we seem to be getting back to where our ancestors started in this matter. They had no time for manners; neither have we, though for vastly different reasons.

THE CARE OF SHOES

ROOTS and shoes are like women—if they do not "grow old gracefully" the world has little use for them. Every sort of leather should have its individual treatment. Suede shoes, for instance, are generally considered hard to take care of because the suede becomes shiny. If suede shoes are brushed with a soft brush before and after wearing they will retain their freshness much longer than usual. When they do get to the point where further brushing is useless rub them long and vigorously with a stick of nitrate of silver, which will turn them into smooth leather all over. This leather must always have a dull polish. Do not hold the stick too long at any single spot or it will cut through the whole shoe.

Patent leather is another problem. Mere rubbing with the hand or with a soft bit of flannel is the remedy for the all too prevalent crackling. It is necessary to keep the leather soft and supple without losing its shine, and this is the best method to accomplish your end.

The waterproofing of shoes is a subject for an article in itself. Rubbing sweet oil into the cracks between soles and uppers is excellent, and so is placing the shoes on a plate of linseed oil. This makes the soles impervious to rain. Another method of waterproofing soles is to warm them slightly and give them several coats of copal varnish drying them after each coat.

When boots have become damp they should be taken off as soon as possible and stuffed with newspapers. Shoes that have been neglected and have hardened after a wetting should be rubbed with vasoline. Sweet oil or lard is better for very heavy walking shoes.

BEAVER BROOK MILL AT COLLINSVILLE

Live Items of Interest From the Great Factories

It is expected that the new mill for Main is the architect and he is represented by Engineer C. G. Hill. The new mill will be identical with the mill completed last year. It will be three stories high.

The new mill to be erected by the Hamilton Mfg. Co. will be almost directly opposite the mill now being built by the Bigelow Carpet company. The Hamilton people have not yet made application for a permit to build, but old buildings are being torn down to make room for the new mill.

The repairs at the Boot mills made necessary by the accident which occurred there several months ago have been completed. The repairs really amounted to the re-building of a large section of the mill. When the big fly wheel cut loose on the day of the accident it went through the mill wall and it went in two. The accident cost the company about $75,000.

Virtues of Cocoanut Oil

The virtues of pure cocoanut oil in the treatment of the hair and scalp have been known for many years all over the world.

This oil is one of the ingredients in Birt's Head Wash. It is used in an unsaponified condition, and during the process of shampooing a certain portion of it is absorbed by the scalp.

The free cocoanut oil makes Birt's Head Wash a better solvent of dirt than any plain soap can possibly be. As an example, if the hands are soiled with dirty engine grease, they can be cleaned perfectly with Birt's Head Wash, which would be impossible with hard soap, even when used with a scrubbing brush.

The other ingredients in Birt's Head Wash are white of eggs, glycerin, salicylic acid and a refined soap body, every one of which is most excellent in treating dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair. In hygienic tubes 25c., at druggists.

over about 68,000 spindles, so that the capitalization per spindle is less than $1.00. As a matter of fact, the quick assets of the company at the end of the past calendar year were over $175,000, or almost $106 per share.

Making Union Suits

The Tremont & Suffolk company has been actively and profitably engaged in making union suits. This is practically a new departure for this company and the first public mention made of it appeared in The Sun.

It will be remembered that the Tremont & Suffolk several months ago passed its dividend and at the time there was much of criticism of this action of the directors. The stock dropped off to 160, with the last sale taking place at 112. Little stock, however, came out on the decline; for, as a matter of fact, the Tremont & Suffolk stock is not widely distributed, and those who have it know its worth, and are content to wait until such time as the directors feel that the company is in a position to pay the extras.

Shaw Stocking Company

The Shaw Stocking company, it is stated, is having a revival of orders for stockings, and the company is very busy filling orders on the well known Boston garter, which enjoys such a wide distribution, and is so popular with the men. The Shaw Stocking company is another company which passed its dividend during the present year. Previous to this, however, this company paid regular dividends of 8 per cent. for many years.

The Middlesex Mills

The Middlesex, as most everybody knows, has taken out its woolen machinery and has started a knitting plant. Some of the company's buildings are occupied by the Merrimack Utilization company. This company's main building is a seven story structure and is admirably suited for their purposes.

The demand for cotton waste increases as the price for raw cotton advances. With the present price of cotton, manufacturers are utilizing waste as much as possible. The Merrimack Utilization company handles many million pounds of waste per year. Various grades of cotton waste are purchased from the Massachusetts mill, Boot mills, Lawrence Manufacturing company, Hamilton Manufacturing company and the Merrimack Manufacturing company. This is properly sorted, cleaned and conditioned, and is then sold in open market. Floor sweepings containing miscellaneous grades of waste, much dirt, straw and foreign matter are purchased by the Utilization company, and the good cotton reclaimed. Bales of sweepings, which apparently contain little or no good cotton, yield much which may be used for spinning.

Collinsville Mill

The Beaver Brook mills at Collinsville, as was stated in The Sun a few days ago, are about to start up on full time on a large order just received. The Beaver Brook mills are owned by the American Woolen company. The directors of the American Woolen company have declared a regular quarterly dividend of one and three-quarter per cent on the preferred stock payable July 15, 1911, to stockholders of record June 23, 1911. American Woolen preferred is now selling around 65.

MATRIMONIAL

Mr. Ellsworth Wheeler, proprietor of the Grove farm, Bulwer, Quebec, and Miss Lillian O. Forbes of this city were united in marriage Thursday evening at 7 o'clock, the ceremony being performed at the residence of the bride, 632 Bridge street, by Rev. Dr. St. John Chamber of St. Anne's church. The bride was becomingly attired in white silk and carried bride roses. The couple were unattended. There were guests present from St. Johnsbury, Vt., Nashua, N. H., Wilmington and New York. After a short honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler will make their home at Bulwer, Que.

Centralville Lodge, I. O. O. F.--- Its History and Officers

In the latter part of 1891, the matter of organizing a lodge of Odd Fellows in Centralville began to be agitated by our late esteemed brother, Arthur H. Chas. The suggestion met with great favor and on the 15th of March, 1892, one of the largest Odd Fellows Lodges ever instituted in the state was started upon its career by the Grand Officers of the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts. The seven original members under the requirements of the charter of the order were: John W. Stewart, Charles W. Nevers, Henry J. Adams, Fred J. Fleming, Cleveland J. Cheney, Jr., Geo. H. Frye, Harry Swann, Geo. H. Taylor, David A. Haskell, Henry C. Fuller, Frank E. Cleveland, Frank R. Clark, Daniel N. Chitt, George R. Lockwood, Ashley A. Welcomes, Merrill E. Adams, Royal L. Stevens, Henry H. Stickney, Roscoe S. Chase, Chas. H. Bent, Fred A. Bassett, C. E. Doty, Franklin P. Fox, Chas. W. Nevers, Alonzo G. Emery, Charles E. Worden, Leroy C. Hall, Fred L. Balcom, Chas. A. Wilson, Asbury P. Adams, Henry T. Flavell, Daniel D. Fox, Herbert R. Baker, Orville E. Coon, Charles W. Tremont, Edward E. Perry, Winfield S. Cross, "Dead."

The first board of officers was composed of the following: John W. Stewart, N. G., Harris C. Pearson, R. S. Henry, J. Esport, treasurer, George L. Adams, warden, D. A. Jensen, I. S. G. Herbert R. Baker, O. G. L.

For a few months the lodge met in a small hall in Puffer's block on the west side of Bridge street, but that hall was soon outgrown and after some effort the S. B. Hall, property on the west side of Bridge street, was bought, the buildings were changed over to serve the purposes of the lodge and the new quarters were opened with a grand fair which netted $1700. This sum was used for furnishing the hall, and the first public installation of the officers of the lodge was held in the new quarters on January 11, 1893. Thus in nine months after it was instituted the lodge had grown to a membership of over 400, had purchased and built a hall, the entire cost of which was about $25,000.

The Centralville Rehearsal lodge was instituted with 137 members on October 10, 1895.

Centralville lodge has been prominent in all the work of the order in Lowell. It has fulfilled the purposes for which it was organized, exemplified in the symbol of the three links and expressed in the words "Friendship, Love and Truth." It has held many social occasions, excursions, and has entertained and visited many sister lodges. We quote from the historical address given on the occasion of the tenth anniversary, March 12, 1902, these words relating to that brother, now deceased, to whom the lodge owes more than to any other individual:

"It is to our genial, faithful friend, Post Grand A. H. Chas., that this lodge is indebted for its existence. From the time when the idea of organizing the lodge was advanced by him, all through the hard work of preparing the petition for the charter and in the purchase and reconstruction of this building for our purposes, in the degree work and in every social and successful event which has marked our history, he has been an earnest and willing worker. To him belongs the title, 'Father of Centralville Lodge.'"

One of the oldest members of the lodge is Mr. Charles E. Robinson of 45 Chelsea avenue. The venerable gentleman entered the lodge on March 15, 1892, after observing his 64th birthday. He is now 82 years of age, and despite his advanced age, is still very interested in the duties of the lodge.

The lodge now has 387 members on its membership roll and is in the best of financial condition. Its present noble grand, Mr. Charles A. Wells, is an active Odd Fellow and during his term of office, the lodge has made good advancement.

The other officers are all very much devoted to the lodge, the list follows: Noble grand, Charles A. Wells; vice grand, Linwood T. Sanders; recording secretary, Thomas M. Smith; financial secretary, George R. Lockwood; treasurer, Edward E. Perry; warden, Chas. S. Chapin; conductor, Clarence E. Clark; chaplain, Arthur P. Atwood; R. S. S., Guy H. Richardson; L. S. Reed; inside guardian, Alfred C. Dixon; outside guardian, Royal H. Mills; Trustees: Frederic J. Fleming, Geo. H. Taylor, Charles E. Worden, District Deputy Grand Master Charles G. Stevens, Lawrence, Mass.

SKIN PEELS FROM SORE FEET

The discomfort and suffering of persons with tender perspiring feet can hardly be imagined by those not so afflicted. The acid perspiration sometimes softens the skin so that it peels off the feet in patches. Comfort Powder freely applied regulates and checks the perspiration, keeps the feet dry and stops the pain and irritation. Mac Myers, trained nurse, Lock Haven, Pa., says, "For chafing and skin irritation Comfort Powder excels all others and for swollen, perspiring feet, it is excellent." The genuine bears E. S. Sykes' signature.

SURPRISE FR. BARETTE COURTS TO MERGE

Parishioners Present Gifts to Curate

Rev. Fr. Antoine Barette, O. M. I., curate at Notre-Dame de Lourdes church, was given the surprise of his life last night, when the parishioners presented him several gifts. The occasion was also a whist party for the benefit of the parish.

The affair was held in the parochial school hall and was largely attended. It was organized at first as a whist party for the parish funds, but later when the members of the committee learned that it was the 50th anniversary of the birth of their beloved curate, they immediately made arrangements for the observance of the event.

At 8 o'clock the upper hall of the school, richly decorated, was filled to its doors, and whist was begun at once. Mr. Charles Branchaud presiding over the festivities. The game was well contested and several rich prizes were awarded the winners, the judges being Messrs. A. Morvan, P. X. Dostaler and E. Lavoie. The scores were Misses Emma Basoli, Anna Lebeouf, Mabel Veilleux, Ella Picard, Diana and Antoinette Desmarais.

A fine entertainment was in order during the evening, those taking part being: The Primrose Ladies' orchestra, Mr. Charles Branchaud, Miss Angelina Bloudeau, Miss L. Core, Miss Cora Renaud, Miss Dora Martin, Miss Molly Ivers and Mr. George Labrache.

The audience thinking everything was over was preparing to go, when Mr. Armad Perrin, speaking in behalf of the ladies, presented to Rev. Fr. Antoine Barette, O. M. I., a huge bouquet of roses. This was followed by the presentation of another gift on the part of the parishioners, the gift being presented by Mr. Zephyrin Lorange. The Rev. Father although deeply moved responded in his usual witty way, thanking the people for their mark of esteem.

Refreshments were served after which the guests departed, wishing their curate many happy returns of the day.

The committee in charge was as follows: Mrs. Delphis Sansoulet, Mrs. S. Bernier, Misses Annie and Rose Delima Fane.

THREE MESSAGES

Sent to Legislature by Governor Foss

BOSTON, June 24.—Gov. Foss sent his 60th, 61st and 62nd messages to the legislature yesterday, transmitting the report of Clinton H. Scovell on the public service commissions, the report of H. L. Coe on the adjutant general's department and H. L. Coe's report on the state house expenses.

The governor's message on the public service commission is largely an amplification of the recommendations contained in his inaugural message, urging the consolidation of the railroad commission, the gas and electric light commission, the highway commission and the Boston transit commission into a single commission.

"The report indicates," the governor says, "that our present state regulation of public utilities does not safeguard the public; that the policy of the state is narrow and short-sighted in regard to such control and that a remedy may be found either in giving each commission broader power and making them live up to it, or by combining all these commissions into a single public service commission with powers broad enough to cover the whole field of public utilities. The present imperfect work of our commissions leaves the public unable to determine even the faithfulness of its public servants.

In regard to the adjutant general's department the governor recommends that the state auditor should be required to draw up a form of accounts for the military department and co-operate with the adjutant general in settling the finances of that department into shape.

General Darling Will Lose Position

BOSTON, June 24.—The consolidation of the United States circuit court with the United States district court, originally scheduled for July 1, will not take place until Jan. 1.

While generally regarded as the enlargement of the district court incident to the abandonment of the circuit court, government officials in Boston look upon the change virtually as the creation of a new federal tribunal.

Frank H. Mason, who has been clerk of the United States district court for years, will become clerk of the merged court, and Gen. Charles K. Darling, clerk of the circuit court, will lose his berth. In April, 1908, Gen. Darling resigned as United States marshal, which carried a salary of $5000, to accept the circuit court of appeals clerkship at a salary of $3500 and other emoluments in the shape of fees. He was appointed to succeed the late John G. Steaton of Roxbury, who had been clerk 41 years. Soon after he succeeded Alexander H. Trowbridge as clerk of the circuit court, Mr. Trowbridge having resigned. His present salary is $5000 and fees.

Under the so-called Moon bill, however, the circuit courts throughout the United States are to be abolished and all the books and records are to be turned over to the clerks of the district courts. This is to act to codify, revise and amend the laws relating to the judiciary.

THE LOWELL MASONS

Are Being Well Entertained at Bath, Me.

BATH, Me., June 24.—Dunlap commandery, Knights Templars of this city, entertained about 150 members of Pilgrim commandery of Lowell, Mass., here yesterday in honor of St. John's day. The visitors arrived by special train about noon and were met by Emment Commander J. Clifford Spinney of Dunlap, youngest commander in the state. They were immediately escorted to the landings, where buffet lunch was served.

There they were given a cordial greeting by Commander Spinney, who introduced Harold M. Sewall, who extended the welcome of the city. A response was delivered by Emment Commander Horace S. Bacon of Pilgrim commandery. A musical program was given by the bands and then came the exchanges of badges.

This was followed by a parade about the principal streets of Bath, ending at the home of John Holmes, where a reception and banquet was held. At five o'clock the members of both commanderies boarded the steamer Winthurn for a sail to Popham beach, where the night was spent.

Today's program included an inspection of the new fortification at the mouth of the Kennebec river at Fort Baldwin, where an exhibition of the new disappearing gun was given by a squad from Co. D of the 1st company, C. A. C., under command of Capt. Geo. A. Baker. This will be followed by a monster clam bake.

The day promises to be the biggest in the history of Popham beach, for Gardner commandery also entertains a large number of guests at the same resort. Dunlap and Pilgrim commanderies will return tonight.

Your Vacation Outfit

When you are planning what to take with you on your vacation don't limit yourself to clothing and fishing tackle. Toilettine has a hundred uses. It is an invaluable vacation companion. It affords sure relief from brown tail moth bites, mosquito bites, sunburn, cuts, burns and bruises, and quickly allays the inflammation from poison ivy. ## THIS DAY IN HISTORY

FIRST GLASS FACTORY

JUNE 24.—The making of glass was a well established industry among the Egyptians as far back as 4000 B. C. This is proven by rude pictures of glass blowers at work, which are found in tombs and ruins in the land of the Pharaohs. Evidence of glass making in Phoenicia, Assyria and Babylonia has been discovered, and Persia, China and India have been included in the enterprise. All the modern countries of the world have their glass manufacturing plants set up almost as soon as the kitchen stove. In the early days of populating America the glass maker came with the plowman and small factories were started in a number of places. None were of a permanent class, however. William Penn alludes to a Quaker glass house having made glass and beads for the Indians in 1683 but the demand for lenses was not strong enough to make the venture pay. The first permanent glass factory in the United States was opened in Dutchess, N. Y., on June 24, 1755. A Dutch gentleman named Bamber made the first bottle and his name was blown in it. Since by the use of the bottle, they could take a summer vacation.

If Mr. Vigeant had dropped a Stillman Lantern that fire would not have happened, because the Stillman Lantern cannot explode. It goes out if dropped. It safely stands the roughest handling and is odorless. Let the horse kick it over—who cares. Price 85c

THE MYSTIC NOBLES

Will Go to Boston on July 2nd

Lowell Caravan No. 3, Mystic Nobles of Granada, is preparing for a monster initiation on Sunday, July 2nd, in Granada hall, Boston, and indications point to a big attendance from this city. The officers of the local caravan have been working diligently, getting things in shape for their visit to Boston, and about seventy-five members will be a result of the initiation added to the local body.

Organizer Thomas H. Cummings of New York was in Lowell yesterday and conferred with the local officers. Owing to the fact that several other caravans in New England had planned events for July 2nd there was some doubt as to whether or not the degree work at the Hubbard street hall on the date specified. In a telegram received today by Dr. Wm. M. Collins, grand monarch, from Supreme Monarch Allen, the latter states positively that the initiation will take place as scheduled in Boston. In connection with the initiation the Boston men have made elaborate preparations for a banquet. Over 1000 covers will be laid.

The fire started in rooms of the upper floor, where the local lodge of Odd Fellows had been holding a banquet during the evening and had worked through the flooring into the library on the second floor when discovered. The town's fire brigade turned out with the hand tank and volunteers saved the mails when assistance was requested from Milford, where a steam engine was secured and confined the blaze to the single building.

THE LAWRENCE GRAFT CASES

SALEM, June 24.—Although 24 hours had elapsed since they were given the case, there was no indication at 10.40 a. m. today that the jury considering the evidence in the case of the four men indicted for conspiracy to defraud the city of Lawrence would report a verdict.

The juryman presented a sadly bedraggled and tired appearance when they went to breakfast today after an all night session. During the night the sound of heated argument floated through the door of the jury room.

The men on trial are Patrick Lyons, superintendent of streets of Lawrence; Michael Flynn, a clerk in the Lawrence street department; Phillip Holland and Fred Snow, paving block contractors.

The jury left the court and went to their homes. So far as could be learned at the court house no sealed verdict was left, and it was the general opinion that no verdict had been reached and that acting under instructions the jury concluded their deliberations at 12 o'clock. It is expected that the verdict will be given in court at 9.30 a. m. on Monday.

MEN SLAUGHTERED

The Insurgents' Loss Heavier Than Was at First Reported

SAN DIEGO, Cal., June 24.—The losses to General Mosby's forces in the Tia Juana fight Thursday were much greater than first reported. Celso Vega, in command of the federalists, reported last night that his men buried 31 bodies and that a total of 58 have been found. Corpses were placed in trenches south of the town. Few if any of them will ever be identified.

Governor Vega declares that the principal slaughter took place when the insurgents left their train. They were in close formation and before they could scatter the machine guns and rifles mowed down a large number.

Americans were admitted to Tia Juana yesterday. It is now believed that the federalists have no prisoners. A Mexican who was arrested as a spy by Vega's men yesterday was given until this morning to satisfy the federalists that he is not an insurgent. General Mosby was identified yesterday at Fort Rosecrans as a deserter from the United States marine corps. The identification was made by several marines who knew him when he was stationed at Mare Island. The desertion, they state, occurred a year and a half ago. When confronted with the marines who recognized him, Mosby admitted they were not mistaken.

MATRIMONIAL

An event which was awaited with great interest by Trenton, N. J., social circles was the wedding of Miss Ida Bennett Lenox, daughter of Mrs. Lucy I. Lenox, of 24 Centre street, and Mr. Clarence T. Kilpatrick, of this city, formerly of Lowell, Mass. The ceremony took place in the State Street M. E. church at 6 o'clock Thursday evening, and it was one of the largest weddings of the season.

The bride was dressed in an exquisite gown of white satin, made in train, hand-embroidered and very elaborately trimmed with Point Venise lace. Her long veil was caught with a coronet of lilies of the valley and she carried a bouquet of white roses showered with lilies of the valley. Her only ornament was a brooch of diamonds and pearls, the gift of the bridegroom.

The bride was given away by her cousin, John A. Watson, of Jersey City, attended as maid of honor. She wore a gown of white satin, made in train, hand-embroidered and very elaborately trimmed with Point Venise lace. Her long veil was caught with a coronet of lilies of the valley and she carried a bouquet of white roses showered with lilies of the valley. Her only ornament was a brooch of diamonds and pearls, the gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Isabelle M. Lucas, of this city, and Florence M. Donovan, of Bordertown, were bridesmaids. Their gowns were exactly alike, were of shell pink satin, made Empire effect, with puffed waist trimmed with lilies of the valley. Their only ornaments were horseshoe shaped brilliant brooches, the gift of the bride. They carried bride-maid roses. The gowns of the bride and her attendants were all made with long trains.

Mrs. Lenox, the bride's mother, wore an imported Oriental robe of chiffon over a green gown, with black velvet and made in train. She wore diamond ornaments.

Mr. Kilpatrick was attended by Mr. Frederick L. Hulme and Messrs. Carl Ricker, Walter Heldeweller, F. B. Stratton and Russell Gage of this city, and Edward M. and Theodore C. Watson, of Jersey City, cousins of the bride-elect, acted as ushers. To his best man Mr. Kilpatrick gave gold monogram cuff links and to the ushers gold tie pins with amethyst settings.

Preceding the ceremony, Mr. Edward C. Mueller, organist at the church, gave a three-quarters of an hour recital.

The ceremony was performed by Dr. John D. Fox, of Harrisburg, Pa., former pastor of the church, assisted by Dr. Isaac L. Wood, the present pastor. The church was decorated by Lane H. Johnson as was also the Lenox home where a reception was held and a collation served. The rear lawn of the Lenox home was canopied and the collation was served in a tent. The attendance at the church was a large and fashionable one, but the guests at the reception included only the bride's party and immediate relatives and friends of the young couple.

Miss Lenox, who is a young woman of charming personality is the daughter of the late Charles Lenox, member of one of Trenton's oldest families, and is popular with her many friends, by whom, since her announcement, she has been tendered many showers of linen, etc. She is also the recipient of many handsome wedding gifts of silverware, cut glass, china, etc.

Mr. Kilpatrick is the son of Representative Charles T. Kilpatrick, of Lowell, Mass. He was graduated from Tufts college in the class of 1907, receiving the degree of civil engineer. After leaving college he came to Trenton in the employ of the American

FISH AND POLITICS

Combined by Party of Dracut Citizens

A party of well known Dracut citizens went on an all-night fishing trip to Island pond one night this week, accompanied by Frank Gantner, who told them that he had discovered a place where the fish were so anxious to bite that they had regular fights at the hook. The party consisted of the chaplain and his brother, Herman, Fred Bassett, Selectman Fred Polard, and Michael Diney. They came back without any fish and all but Bassett claimed that they had caught a pile of them but had eaten them and given away the rest. Bassett made the remark that he could catch more fish in the pond than he could eat. Since their return all the poles of Dracut have been worried for they are of the opinion that while waiting for the fish to bite the bunch were talking politics and were framing up a slate for next year. In Dracut they keep politics alive 12 months in the year.

Deposits received at The Lowell Five Cent Savings Bank begin to draw interest Saturday, July 1st.

Class of 14 to Receive Diocesan Diplomas

At solemn high mass in St. Patrick's church tomorrow morning a class of 14 boys from St. Patrick's Boys' school will receive school diplomas, while 13 of them will receive the much coveted archdiocesan diplomas.

The mass will be sung by Rev. Daniel Barry, O. M. I., recently ordained and a former pupil of the school, and he will be assisted by Rev. John J. McHugh, Rev. Timothy Callahan and Rev. Joseph Curran. Rev. William O'Brien, P. R., will present the diplomas and address the graduates. Special musical programs will be given by the church and auxiliary choirs. The closing exercises of the school were held in the Academy of Music early in the week. The school has had a particularly successful year under the zealous administration of Rev. Brother O'Connell, and the Brothers are particularly gratified over the large number of archdiocesan diplomas to be awarded, a fact which reflects credit upon Rev. Brother Daniel, teacher of the graduating class. These diplomas are the results of examination sent out by Rev. Fr. Lyons of Boston, who is delegated by the archbishop as supervisor of parochial schools. They cover all the different branches taught at the schools and the papers are sent back to Boston for examination and marking. All pupils who pass with a rank of 85 per cent receive archdiocesan diplomas in addition to their regular school certificates. The rank required by St. Patrick's school is 75 per cent. Thus in an enrollment of 14 St. Patrick's school is to receive 13. There has never been such a record reached by St. Patrick's school, and of the other four schools of the Xaverian Brothers in the archdiocese St. Patrick's outranks three of them. Those who will receive the archdiocesan diplomas are as follows: James Francis Sullivan, George Raymond Carroll, John Thomas Powers, Eugene Aloysius Fitzgerald, Joseph Francis Riley, Edward Alfred Kelleher, James Benedict Walsh, Cornelius Benedict O'Leary, William Francis Holland, John Thomas Manning, Thomas Francis Dean, John Joseph Bardon, William Paul McCarthy.

MEN DROPPED 40 FEET

Three Lowell Bricklayers Have Miraculous Escape

Three Lowell men employed as bricklayers on the new dormitory being added to the Moody institute at Northfield, Mass., had a miraculous escape from probable fatal injuries on Thursday when a staking on which they were working collapsed as the result of a misplaced putlock precipitating them to the ground 40 feet below.

As it is James W. Kelley, of Fourth avenue, Pawtucket, is confined at the hospital, though his injuries are not serious and he will be about again in a few days.

The other two Lowell men are James Slavin of Mammoth road, Pawtucket, and John B. "Bricks" Beardon of Centerville. Messrs. Slavin and Beardon arrived in Lowell. The former didn't have a mark on him, but "Bricks" looked as if he had been through a threshing machine. His nose is devoid of skin, his left eye is in mourning, while his arms are black and blue the entire length. Outside of that he is feeling fine. "I had the good fortune to land on my head," said "Bricks." "If I had struck on any other part of my anatomy I would have been killed. The three Lowell men and an Italian laborer were on the staking when it collapsed. The men were working on the rear of the building where huge piles of sand and lime are kept. Mr. Slavin and the Italian landed in the sand pile and outside of getting their eyes, ears and mouths filled with sand suffered no injuries. Messrs. Beardon and Kelly landed in the mud, striking some barrels that caused their injuries. Before leaving for Lowell Messrs. Slavin and Beardon called at the hospital and found that Mr. Kelly was more shocked than bruised and would be all right in a few days.

Speaking of their experience to a reporter of The Sun today "Bricks" said: "You can't make a man shuffle off his mortal coil until his time comes. I was working with Billy Spellman some years ago on Capt. Wilson's Memorial chapel in Carthage, when along came a small cyclone that threw the entire wall into the cellar on top of Spellman and myself. There were bricks flying in all directions and while we were buried for a few minutes we escaped with only a few scratches."

"That's nothing," said Slavin, "do you remember when the Bartlett school was being built? I took a drop of 40 feet from the top of the chimney on that building and got away with only a bruised finger and a bad scare."

The Lowell men have been at work at Northfield for the past six weeks and will return Monday.

THE RAILROAD MERGER

Is Held to be Legal by the U. S. Circuit Court

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 24.—The merger of the Southern Pacific and the Union Pacific railroads is legal, according to an opinion handed down today by the United States circuit court of the eighth district.

Judge Hook filed a dissenting opinion in which he expressed the belief that the government's position was well founded and should have been granted.

The government's suit in equity against the Southern Pacific Railroad company and the Union Pacific Railroad company to enjoin the continued control of the former by the latter was filed in Salt Lake City, Utah, Feb. 2, 1908.

The government's petition was signed by Attorney General Bonaparte and his special assistants. It sets forth in detail the agreements by which the defendants at times since 1901 were alleged to have secured for themselves and others the management and control of the various defendant roads, their branches and steamship lines and to have ever since operated them in restraint of commerce.

Since the suit was filed Mr. Harriman and Mr. Rogers have died, Judge R. S. Lovett, successor to Mr. Harriman in the railroad system, was by stipulation made a defendant. Attorney General Bonaparte and Assistant Attorney General Purdy retired from office while the suit was pending. Hearings were held in many cities of the country.

Arguments were made in the case before Judges Sanborn, Hook, Adams and Van De Venter, now a member of the United States supreme court, Oct. 15, 1910 in St. Paul, C. A. Severance and Frank Kellogg argued for the government. Judge P. D. Dunne of California spoke for the Southern Pacific, former Senator John C. Spooner appeared for Henry C. Frick, N. H. Loomis of Omaha, for the Union Pacific, and David T. Watson of Pittsburgh, submitted a special brief and argued for all of the defendants. The judges of the eighth judicial circuit of the United States circuit court, had the case under advisement since the arguments.

The suit was tried in the circuit court under the expedition act of congress. Any appeal will be made directly to the United States supreme court.

Conspiracy Charged

The bill charged conspiracy and violation of a combination in violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust act, passed by congress to protect trade and commerce against unlawful monopolies.

The defendants named in the case were the Union Pacific, Oregon Short Line, Southern Pacific, Oregon Railroad and Navigation company, San Pedro, Los Angeles, and Salt Lake company, Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe, Northern Pacific, Great Northern railway, the Farmers' Loan and Trust company, Edward H. Harriman, Jacob H. Schiff, Otto H. Kahn, James Stillman, Henry H. Rogers, Henry C. Frick and Wm. A. Clark.

FOUL PLAY SUSPECTED

Lumber Mill Owner Who Disappeared Had Money

WAKEFIELD, N. H., June 24.—The disappearance of Charles A. Fernald, lumber mill owner and expert sawyer, from the lumber camp of William H. Willey, 24, of this town, where he was employed as a sawyer May 23 last, and the fact that no trace of him has been obtained since, gives rise to the suspicion of foul play.

It was not until last night, however, that the Carroll county authorities were asked to take a hand in the search for the missing man and were notified of the alleged absence of two other men from the camp during the two days following Fernald's disappearance.

Sheriff Johnson of Union was visited last night by Mr. Willey, who told his story. A conference was also held with the Wakefield selectmen.

Fernald was about 35 years old and is understood to have a wife and son in Massachusetts. Up to last March he had been cutting off a large wood lot of his own in Pleasant valley, Wolfboro. He then stored his mill on the premises of Mrs. Ann Young of that town and was engaged by Fred Sherburne of Sanford, Me., who is associated with Willey in the lumber business and owns the mill used in their operations, to act as sawyer on the lots near the Willey residence in South Wakefield.

About 20 men were employed on the job, 14 of whom boarded and lodged at the Willey home. Although the men were employed by Sherburne, Willey handled the funds and paid the men.

A reporter who called on Mr. and Mrs. Willey yesterday at their home obtained a statement from them concerning the disappearance of Fernald.

They claimed that Friday evening, May 26, Fernald had some trouble with George Chandler and Ed. Wilson, men employed on the job and lodged at the Willey home. Mr. Willey said the talk occurred in the sitting room where all could hear. The men wanted Fernald to loan them some money, and the latter refused. Fernald had been making good pay, averaging $4 to $4.50 a day, and he had saved a good part of it, which he always carried with him. He is thought to have had more than $500 at the time.

Trouble is Alleged

Fernald's refusal to lend them money was resented, the Willeys claim, and Chandler assumed a threatening attitude and finally the men climbed out. They were separated by Mr. Willey's son, Bernard.

As they were parted Chandler is alleged to have threatened Fernald. The next day the three men worked together, but they would not speak to each other Saturday night the trouble again

Said to Have Slashed His Wife's Throat

MIDDLEBORO, June 24.—With a wound in his neck, self-inflicted, Harry Paul 25, of this town, is a prisoner in an improvised hospital at the courthouse, charged with attempting to murder his wife, Irene.

She, too, has a deep gash in her throat and may not recover. Jealousy is the motive for the alleged attack. Mrs. Paul, who is 25, left her husband a few days ago and came to the home of a sister in this town. Yesterday Paul followed and visited the house where his wife was staying. A short time later the woman was found with her throat gashed, and in the woods near the house the man was found in the same condition.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

"Is Marriage a Failure?" a howling, screaming farce comedy, will be the star offering in next week's bill at the Merrimack Square theatre. There will be other good numbers, but the presentation of this piece by Mortimer Snow & Co. will top all others. The piece is a decidedly good one, containing many happy lines, funny situations, a continuous strain of clever humor that is sure to keep audiences in an uproar from start to finish. Mr. Snow is as clever in comedy as he is in the more dramatic offerings in which he has appeared, and Miss Anderson is also unusually clever in light offerings such as "Is Marriage a Failure?"

The staging of the play will again be featured in the care for detail and richness of effect so that all the presentation should certainly score heavily. If you are anxious for a bright series of laughs, then don't miss next week's show at the Merrimack Square.

Other numbers on the bill are "Lachinquantine," a G. Maria "La Belle Mexicaine," O. Langley Song for two corners, "I Would that My Love," Mendelssohn's "March of the Victors," Von Bloch Overture, "Orpheus," Offenbach's Duo Characteristic, for Trombone and Clarinet, "The Elephant and the Fly," K. Kling.

Messrs. Hoelrich and Dick Concert waltz, "Vienna Beauties," Popular medley, "Cream Pickings," E. Meyer.

Selection, "Spring Maid," Fall Nymphs solo, "Fire Fly" solo.

LIQUOR BUSINESS

REPORTED TO BE GOOD IN THE "DRY" STATES

WASHINGTON, June 24.—Approximately 20,000,000 gallons of liquors annually are shipped by express, principally from mail order houses, direct to consumers in prohibition states. This startling fact was developed yesterday in an inquiry conducted by the interstate commerce commission into proposed changes in express classifications which resulted in an advance of rates on packages containing liquors.

The commission held that the express requirement that liquor containers should be packed in corrugated paper cartons was reasonable; but that the charge for transportation based upon arbitrary weights—15 pounds for a gallon of whiskey—was unreasonable; and that the discrimination against stone jugs also was unreasonable.

JUBILEE CELEBRATION

Austria Has Not Sent Any Representatives to Italy

ROME, June 24.—The celebration of the Jubilee of Italian Unity, with the exhibitions in Rome and in Turin, has emphasized the strangeness of the situation between Italy and Austria. Emperor Francis Joseph and the government of the Dual Monarchy, alone of all the rulers and great powers, have sent no representation to the Italian celebrations and it has been only in the most recalcitrant manner that Austria has participated in the International Exhibition of Fine Arts here, while she was the only nation which did not take part in the Exhibition of Industries and Labor of Turin.

This is significant when one considers that Vienna and Rome have been allied as members of the Triple Alliance for nearly thirty years. Nor can it be said that Austria's attitude is inspired by a desire to spare the feelings of the Vatican, as Austria in 1870 was the first country to congratulate Italy over the fall of the Temporal Power, and the relations between the Austrian government and the Holy See have been, recently, strained. The attitude of Austria is due to the ancient antagonism between the two countries, which is reaching a more acute stage now that the health of Emperor Francis Joseph is failing, and the reigns of the Dual Monarchy are practically in the hands of the Crown Prince, Archduke Francis Ferdinand.

The old emperor has witnessed during his long reign greater political and family catastrophes than any other living sovereign, with the exception, perhaps, of King Manuel of Portugal. He went from the defeat of Sadowa to the loss of Lombardy and Venetia, from the incurable infirmity of Emperor Elizabeth to her murder by an anarchist, besides that yet unexplained tragedy which led to the death of his only son, Archduke Rudolf.

Such a succession of sorrows induced the venerable monarch to be strongly opposed to his country participating in any conflict, and the one which might have been the most profitable was avoided through the alliance with Italy and Germany, and the great respect that the aged ruler inspired throughout Europe. His successor will not command the same influence, so that the disappearance of Francis Joseph may have a capital influence in the foreign policy of Europe. It is being doubted that he will maintain the present attitude of submission to Germany, while his intransigent clericalism may revive in Austria the "Loss of Rome" movement, and cause a rupture with Italy, which would not please even the Vatican, as Pius X. has been so far characterized by a most dignified reserve, as while it commends the approval of the temporal power, it does not desire that anything should be done which might embitter the relations between church and state here, which, since the Pontificate of the present pope began, have been characterized by a spirit of mutual tolerance which in some cases has even reached cordiality. Therefore the excessive zeal of certain bishops, who are so far from Rome have not an exact grasp of the situation here, does not meet altogether with the approval of the Vatican. During the year of Italian Jubilee the Vatican has decided to suppress all kinds of pilgrimages, being inspired by the same idea of preventing conflicts between its adherents and those of opposite opinions, and is also most strict in not admitting to private audiences with the pope, people who are connected with the Italian celebrations.

Tradition is a tenacious thing and not easily overcome especially in the countries of the Old World. Two thousand years ago the triumph of a Roman Emperor was not complete unless it included some wild beasts. In these days in Rome, Pagan customs have been adapted to Christian ideas, and so the monarch, while he no more goes in procession with his kings of the forest, receives them as gifts—and hands them over to the zoological gardens.

In this manner the new ruler of Abyssinia, Lijag-Jasu, has shown his deference towards the king of Italy by sending two magnificent lions, a buffalo, and a zebra. They were first taken to the garden of the palace, where the lions roared, the buffalo bellowed and the zebra—made his own kind of noise. The racket roused the neighborhood, to say nothing of the King and Queen and their little ones. It may be added without fear of contradiction that the only ones pleased were the children, who went loudly when the beasts were taken to the zoo, Prince Umberto being heard to remark that he did not think that was the way to treat the wishes of a future king!

HE DIED SUDDENLY

Lawyer Russell Passed Away After Arrest

DERBY, N. H., June 24.—The arrest of attorney Lester W. Russell Thursday night had a tragic ending yesterday morning. The lawyer, after having passed a restless night, died suddenly. The attending physician, Dr. C. E. Newell, attributed the end to heart disease.

Russell was arrested by Deputy Sheriff James S. Webster. He was charged with forging the name of Elias E. Quimby to a check for $2000 on Derby national bank. Russell was acting as attorney for Quimby, the latter being executor of the large property of the late Mary Leach of Derby Village. The check was dated last March and the money was drawn at that time.

The sheriff made the arrest and soon after Russell was taken violently ill. His physician requested that he be not locked up, but taken to his home and kept in charge of the sheriff.

His wife's father, Mr. Lynde of Melrose, Mass., came here and was ready to lend financial assistance.

REAR-END COLLISION A DOSE OF ACONITE

Sixty Young Women Had Miraculous Escape From Injury Taken by James W. Brackett of Maine by Mistake

STONEHAM, June 24.—Sixty young women employed in the Harvard knitting works in Wakefield and living in Woburn, had a miraculous escape from serious injury if not death last evening in a rear end street car collision on Main street near Lindenwood street in the Farm Hill section of this town. As it was closely guarded, busied cars and trucks, all suffered more or less from shock.

These injured the most were: Agnes Doucette of Stoneham, contusions to the hip. Nellie Comer of Woburn, lacerations to the elbow. Nellie Judge of Montvale, severe contusions to the body. Agnes Whiting of Montvale, severe contusions to the body. Theresa Connolly of Woburn prostrated by shock and hysteria. May Foley of Woburn, shock and hysteria.

Nellie Flaherty of Woburn, shock. May Cogan of Woburn, shock and fainting spells. There were several others who were also quite badly injured, although they managed to get to their homes with the help of friends, but they were later obliged to call physicians to attend them.

The 60 girls were packed in a small box car of the Boston & Northern street railway company, which runs as a special to take them to their work in Wakefield and back home at night to Woburn.

At 6.15 p. m. the car had just stopped at the corner of Main and Lindenwood streets to leave a passenger. A regular Wakefield and Stoneham car was following closely behind, and being bound for Stoneham square. The regular car had acquired such unusual momentum that the motorman was unable to stop it and it crashed with much force into the rear of the car crowded with girls.

The vestibules of both cars were smashed, but the motorman of the rear car jumped and escaped injury.

The girls screamed and became hysterical. Some fainted and others jumped through the windows in their anxiety to escape. Many were cut by bits of broken glass. The noise of the impact of the two cars and the screams of the injured were heard blocks away. Within a few minutes the square was thronged with excited persons, all anxious to ascertain if any of their own relatives or friends were dead or injured.

Every physician within five miles was summoned by telephone. Dr. Joseph H. Kerrigan of this city and Dr. J. A. O'Leary of Wakefield were the first to arrive.

Citizens helped the physicians. Mr. B. H. Cogan of this town came with his big touring car and made two trips to Woburn, carrying a dozen of the injured girls to their homes. It was said that the motorman of both cars were men of limited experience. The local authorities found it difficult to obtain much information concerning the accident, but it is being investigated thoroughly. After the wreck was cleared away the damaged cars were sent to the repair shops.

Lowell Man Arraigned in Suffolk Co. Court

Joseph Gagnon appeared in the Suffolk county court yesterday and through his counsel, James E. O'Donnell, entered a plea of not guilty to a complaint charging him with conspiracy. Probable cause of guilt was found by the court and he was held under $2000 for the superior court. Gagnon is the person who it is alleged was one of the parties who assisted in trimming "Rocky" Snow out of over $5000 on a fake wire tapping machine.

WIFE USED A BAT

Husband Had Asked for Early Breakfast

BOSTON, June 24.—The refusal of Mrs. Wm. J. Carter of 181 Shawmut avenue to prepare a slight repast for her husband and a friend early yesterday morning and her subsequent assault on him and his friend with a baseball bat, resulted in her being sentenced to the house of correction for a term of three months by Judge Sullivan in the city police court yesterday. The woman appealed from the sentence and was held in $500 bail.

The sentence was on a charge of intoxication, the husband of the woman and his friend refusing to prosecute her on a charge of assault and battery.

Carter, with a friend, Edward Barry by name, arrived at the house on Shawmut avenue at 3 a. m. and asked Mrs. Carter to prepare a breakfast. She arose from her bed and seizing a baseball bat assaulted both men in such a manner that they eventually were taken to the City hospital by officers from the East Dedham street station, where it was found Carter had received a severe scalp wound and Barry was suffering from contusions and abrasions of the body.

Neither of the men appeared in court yesterday, both being confined to the hospital from their injuries.

VAN BIBBLER'S EXPERIMENT

A DELAYED PROPOSAL
BEARDED YOUTH

PHILIPS, Me., June 24.—James W. Brackett, chairman of the Maine commission of inland fisheries and game, and editor and owner of Maine Woods, a weekly news and sporting paper, died early today from heart trouble and the effects of a dose of aconite taken by mistake late last night. Dr. W. A. Cragin, the oldest druggist in town, was taken critically ill, but may recover. He also drank the same liquid.

Mr. Brackett had been attending a high school graduation reception and leaving before it was finished called at the drug store of Dr. Cragin about 10.30 o'clock. He and Dr. Cragin had a drink together at the soda counter but instead of taking the liquid they supposed, aconite was turned on. Mr. Brackett drank two ounces and the druggist an ounce and a half. Mr. Brackett was affected at once and rushed across the street to the residence of Doctor Hopkins. An emetic was administered and his stomach was cleared immediately. Soon he was feeling as well as ever and talked and joked with the physician. He had, however, been troubled with a weakness of the heart and about 2.30 the heart unexpectedly stopped beating and he was dead.

In the meantime Dr. Cragin waited on one or two customers who noticed that he acted queerly and closed his store at the customary hour. He then called at the Hopkins' home and rapidly grew worse. He was a very sick man today. He is about 58 years old.

Mr. Brackett, through his connection with the fish and game commission, was one of the best known public officials of Maine. He was first appointed a member of the board on January 25, 1905, and chairman by Governor Fernald in place of Chairman Carlton of Winthrop, who had been at the head of the commission for many years.

GREAT NAVAL REVIEW

King and Foreign Representatives See Great Battleships

PORTSMOUTH, England, June 24.—This was the day of ships and sailors. The king and queen and the foreign representatives at the coronation left the capital and came here for the great naval review of Spithead. Fine weather put the finishing touches on one of the most magnificent displays of the world. Their majesties, accompanied by the official envoys of other countries, came from London in a special train. The king wore an admiral's uniform with a sash of the Order of the Garter. The prince of Wales was in a midshipman's uniform. The queen, Princess Mary and nearly all of the royal ladies were dressed in navy blue. With their majesties were all the other members of the imperial family.

Many special trains were run from London, carrying Indian princes, peers and peeresses, members of parliament, lords of the admiralty and diplomats. The regular and excursion trains arriving during the morning added great numbers to those already gathered here from all parts of the world.

Seventeen nations were represented in the vessels moored in Spithead roadstead in the English channel between the mainland and the Isle of Wight. Of the number ten were battleships of the Dreadnought class from the British navy and one visiting Dreadnought, the German Von Der Tann. First, however, in size and armament, was the American battleship Delaware.

The British dreadnoughts were the Colossus, the Neptune, the Hercules, the Collingwood, the St. Vincent, the Vanguard, the Bellerophon, the Temeraire, the Superb and the Dreadnought.

With these were the four British cruisers of the Inflexible class, the Indefatigable, the Inflexible, the Indomitable, and the Invincible. Other foreign naval powers sent vessels of the pre-dreadnought type. France was represented by the Danton, Japan by the armored cruiser Kurama, Austria by the Radetzky, Italy by the armored cruiser San Marco, Russia by the cruiser Royna Regenta, Argentina by the cruiser Buenos Ayres, Chile by the cruiser Chacabuco, Sweden by the armored cruiser Thetis, Turkey by the cruiser Hamidieh, China by the cruiser Hai Chi, Denmark by the armored cruiser Offet Fischer, the Netherlands by the armored cruiser Jacob Van Heemskerck and Norway by the armored cruiser Eldsvold. Greece sent the armored cruiser Georgios Averof. In addition to the official representatives of the 17 visiting nations there were secondary vessels from Japan, Italy and Chile.

Various types of warships added to the British units of dreadnoughts and invincibles made the total British contingent 170 ships. All the vessels in the roadstead, including the foreign warships and excursion steamers with spectators, were moored in lines supplemented by shorter lines of submarine and torpedo boats. The fleet occupied an area of about 18 square miles.

The British dreadnoughts were the Colossus, the Neptune, the Hercules,

A BRASS BAND

TO BE ORGANIZED BY CERLE ST. LOUIS

Providing there is no delay in the filling of the order, it is expected that by the middle of next month, West Centralville will be provided with music by a band of 30 pieces, for the members of Cerle St. Louis have sent in their order to Woonsocket, R. I., for the complete equipment of a band, and the instruments are expected in this city by July 17.

A well attended and enthusiastic meeting of the circle was held last night in the members' quarters at St. Louis school. President Hector McDonald occupied the chair, and after considerable business had been transacted, and several new members initiated, the question of forming a band was again brought up for discussion. After every one present had been purchased an order, it was voted to purchase 30 silver instruments.

Cerle St. Louis was organized May 4, 1910 with about a dozen members. It occupies large rooms in St. Louis school and the members are all active and hard working young men. Their chaplain is Rev. Fr. R. A. Fortier, and he is the one who conceived the idea of forming a band among them. Several of them are able musicians, and a number of them are members of the local union of musicians.

The officers of the circle are the following: Hector McDonald, president; Leo Beaulieu, vice president; Ernest Trudeau, secretary; Rodolph Dupuis, assistant secretary; Adolphe Leguin, honorary president; Antonio Trudeau, collector; J. A. Chretien, treasurer. There is a neat little sum in the circle's treasury, but not quite enough to purchase the instruments, for they will cost $1000. In the near future a soiree will be given to raise funds for the said purchase, and the following committee has been appointed to look after the arrangements of an entertainment. Adolphe Leguin, Antonio Trudeau, J. A. N. Chretien and Leo Beaulieu.

"FETE CHAMPETRE"

PROMINENT SPEAKERS TO ADDRESS THE GATHERING

Everything is now in readiness for the "fete champetre" to be given at Washington park on July 3 and 4, for the benefit of Notre Dame de Lourdes parish. The plans were laid out by the Rev. Fr. J. B. A. Barrette, O. M. I., curate of the parish, and are being carried out by different committees who are pushing the thing along in great shape.

The opening of the fete will take place on Monday, July 3 at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, and the festivities will be carried on till midnight. Several speakers will be heard on the opening night, among them, Hon. Alphonse Desjardins of L'Assommoir, who will give the outlines of "La Caisse Populaire," a bank now being organized in nearly every parish of the state. Mr. Desjardins gives his lectures under the auspices of the state of Massachusetts. The program for the evening will consist of selections by the Lowell Independent band, speeches, automobile driving, etc. Rev. Fr. Barrette and

HANDS DOWN DECISION AGAINST THE HAVILAND HEIRS

BOSTON, June 24.—Judge Morton, in the supreme court yesterday, decided that the heirs of Henry Haviland had failed to show he was married to his first cousin, Mary H. Haviland, and that they were not entitled to a share of a trust fund which had been left by her father, Thomas Haviland, to go to her heirs in case she left no issue. Her father died in 1873 and her death occurred in 1886. The heirs of Henry Haviland claimed the share which he, as husband, would get as a statutory heir. They claimed the first cousins were married in 1854.

Judge Morton said there was no evidence tending to show under what circumstances the marriage took place and that the only evidence of their relations was from an interested witness. He said there was no evidence that they saw each other from the time of their separation until her death, and refers to the fact that she made no claim upon him and that he did not come to her funeral. He points out that not at one time during the 13 years he survived her, did he make any claim in regard to her estate or assert in any way that he was her husband.

William Jones, the new outfielder of the Boston Nationals from Portsmouth, O., is not of the great west. Far from it, he is a down-easter, born and raised in the state of Coombs, Carrigan and Parent, coming from the town of Millinocket in northern Maine.

Jones got his first real money for playing baseball in 1907, when he got a job with George Boardman, the New England leaguer, who was player-manager of Waterville in the Maine State league, catching until Waterville quit. Then he hooked up with Jack Lett's Bangor team, with which Ray Collins of the Boston Red Sox was the first string pitcher and Larry Gardner third baseman. While at Bangor Jones changed from a backstop to an outfielder and has played that position ever since. In 1908 Jones played the entire season with Bangor, which won the championship.

In 1909 Jones played on his home team which won the Arnoestock league championship, Billy leading the bunch with the stick. Earlier in the season he tried out with Scranton in the New York state league, but went out of form.

Last year he signed with Portsmouth in the Ohio state league and played the best ball of his career, helping his team to land the pennant. He played in 57 games, standing third in the league in batting with an average of .338. In fielding he accepted 51 chances with three errors, giving him an average of .953. He played the season of 1909 without a fielding error.

Jones has a fruit and confectionery store down in Millinocket. He is something of a hunter and is sure to get his legal allowance of a moose and two deer each year.

Jones signed with Lowell last season and didn't make good and hence the chroniclers scratch Lowell from his biography.

BANNON GETS JOB

Elected Manager of the Haverhill Team

HAVERHILL, June 24.—President Cleburn of the Haverhill baseball team yesterday announced that James Bannon, who is at present umpiring in the New England league, will today assume charge of the Haverhill club. The team has been handled by Aubrey since the opening of the season. Two new players joined the team yesterday, James Foran, an outfielder who has been with Northampton in the Connecticut league, and James Burns, a second baseman from the same team. Fred Gattcomb of Wakefield, Maurice Gravenor of Waltham and John Lanehan of Everett, pitchers, will also be given a tryout.

AMATEUR BASEBALL

A red hot game will take place this afternoon when the Cadet Warriors meet the Bleacher team on the Fair grounds. The Cadet Braves are out for victory and if they continue to display their old-time ability to hit and field, their victory is assured. Curtin and Doherty will be the battery for the Cadets. Curtin is at his best as a twirler and has a fine assortment of curves and also plenty of speed. Doherty is back behind the bat and is in the pink of condition. The Cadet followers will be pleased to hear of Desmond's return to the team. Combe has been playing fast ball for high school and is counted on to strengthen the Cadet infield. Hartley and O'Donnell are both hitting the pellet for over 300 and fielding in good style. Every-

BOXING GOSSIP

Ted Nelson, Australia's welterweight champion, who knocked out Saiter White last week, has been matched to box ten rounds with Saiter Burke at the Twentieth Century A. C. New York, a week from tonight. Nelson beat Burke on a foul at the Olympic A. C. recently in one of the roughest battles ever seen there. If Nelson whips Burke this time he will go after a match with any of the top notches, even in the middle-weight class. He has a Ketchel Wallop.

MONKEYS ESCAPED

ENTIRE POLICE FORCE IS LOOKING FOR THEM

NEW YORK, June 24.—The entire police force of Manhattan, reinforced by an army of school children, is searching for two germ-laden monkeys which escaped within the last eighteen hours from the Willard hospital.

The police have been instructed to find and destroy the simians at any cost.

It is feared that they have been adopted as pets by well-meaning persons who found them.

Small accounts solicited and appreciated. The Old Lowell National Bank.

Considering the vast concourse of people in attendance at the coronation Thursday, it was hardly to be expected that the exercises would pass without a number of serious accidents. The bursting of a cannon and the falling of an archway on a public street caused the death of one man and the injury of a considerable number. The consequences were not so serious as to reflect upon the legendary luck following the presence of the Koh I Noor diamond which is the leading gem in Queen Mary's crown.

it is remarkable that suicides are becoming more numerous, if all classes are considered. There are suicides from business reverses, domestic infelicity, disappointment or deception in love, dishonesty in financial affairs, ill health and many other causes. Probably more than half might be prevented by the kindness or friendly advice of those associated with the parties and who must know something about the troubles that lead up to the suicides. But there is a better preventive of suicide than any obtainable from the good offices of friends. It is the true realization of the moral responsibility of every individual to the Creator for the best use of the talents and the life of which he is the custodian. No man or woman has any more right to take his or her own life than the life of another. In other words suicide is at least as foul a crime as is murder, but it differs in this that the victim of suicide escapes all earthly punishment and is accountable only to the eternal Judge.

AMERICAN CITIES

Many Prospering Under Commission Charter

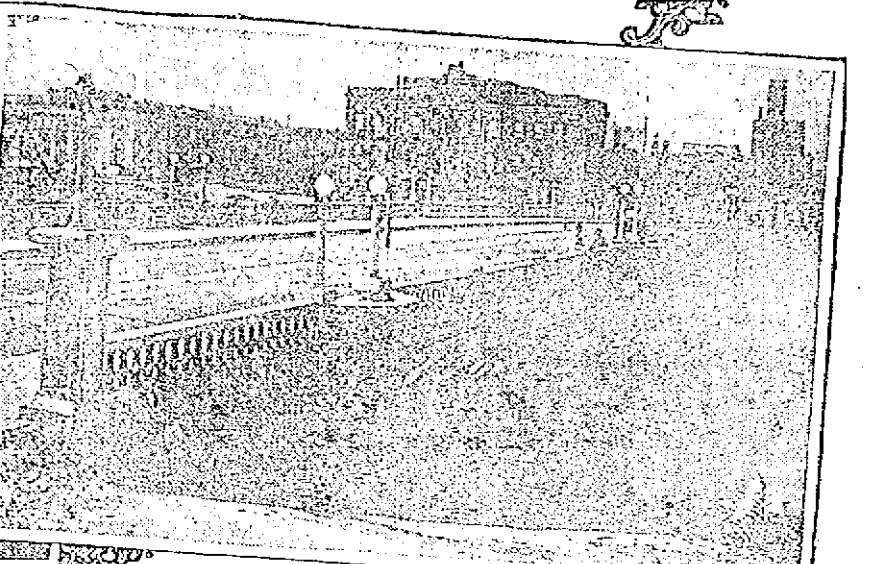

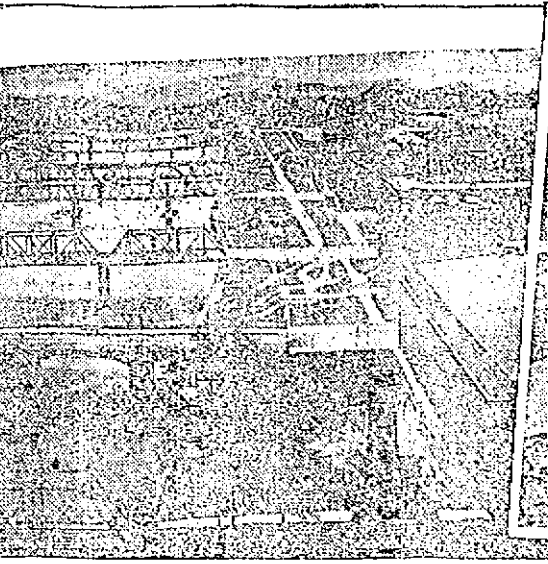

While the commission charter is under discussion here, it may be well to give an idea of how many cities are working under it at the present time and what the results are.

Up to date no fewer than 133 cities have adopted the Galveston-Des Moines system of commission government, and the success in every instance has been so surprisingly great that there is small question of the adding of at least 100 more cities including some very large cities to the list before the close of 1914.

List of Standard Bearers

Here are the cities already under the banner of political decency. They are located in twenty-seven states and aggregate at least 2,500,000 population: Alabama—Birmingham, Montgomery, California—Berkeley, Modesto, Monterey, Oakland, San Diego, Santa Cruz, San Luis Obispo, Vallejo. Colorado—Colorado Springs, Grand Junction. Idaho—Lewiston.

Illinois—Carbondale, Clinton, Decatur, Dixon, Elgin, Hillsboro, Jacksonville, Kewanee, Moline, Ottawa, Pekin, Rochelle, Rock Island, Springfield, Spring Valley, Waukegan, Pittsburg. Iowa—Burlington, Cedar Rapids, Davenport, Des Moines, Fort Dodge, Keokuk, Marshalltown and Sioux City. Kansas—Anthony, Abilene, Coffeyville, Cherryvale, Caldwell, Council Grove, Dodge City, Emporia, Eureka, Girard, Hutchinson, Independence, Iowa, Leavenworth, Kansas City, Marion, Newton, Neodesha, Parsons, Pittsburg, Topeka, Wichita, Wellington. Kentucky—Newport. Louisiana—Shreveport. Maryland—Chamberland. Massachusetts—Gloucester, Haverhill, Lynn, Taunton.

Wisconsin—Appleton, Eau Claire.

Means Burial of the "Boss."

The whole plan is beautiful in its simplicity, but the finest stroke of all is the complete wiping out of the unspeakable "boss."

The governmental unit is the municipality, and it is making itself felt through government by commission.

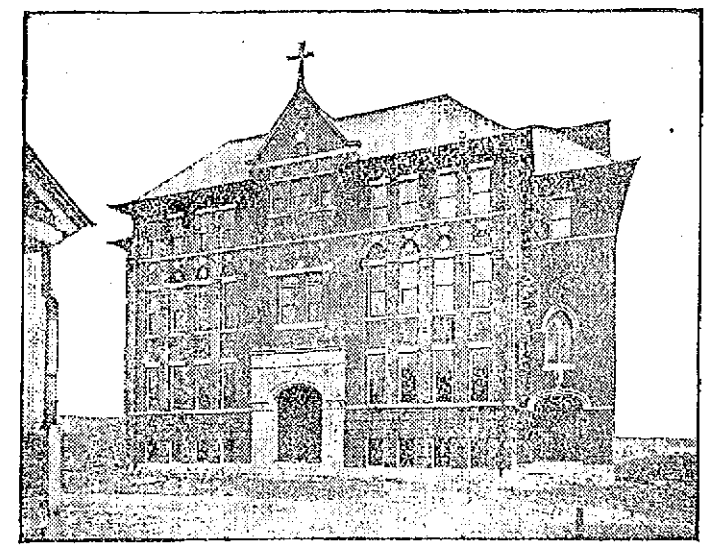

Run Like Business Firm.

The new mode of securing an honest and efficient transaction of municipal business resembles the ordinary mode of conducting great industrial, financial and transportation companies.

The city government is given into the hands of five men, three of whom, under the original charter, were appointed by the governor and two elected by the people. The supreme court has since decided that this appointive clause was unconstitutional, and all five are now elected by the people. This in brief is what is known as "the Galveston plan." It went into effect in 1901 after its flood-disaster. But Des Moines, catching the value of the plan in 1907, started in on a plan that included the initiative, referendum and recall, and so many cities have followed along that Galveston has lost a little of its thunder.

The pictures above show more than a hundred thousand words could do what has happened to make of Des Moines a city in which a man who prefers bathstubs to beers can bring up in health, happiness and decent surroundings his precious babies.

ST. LOUIS' SCHOOL

ST. LOUIS' SCHOOL

Twenty-One Graduates Got Diplomas Last Night

The graduation exercises at St. Louis' school were held last night in the large school hall in Boisvert street. The affair was one of the prettiest ever held in that building, and it will long remain in the memory of the 21 graduates as well as the large attendance. The Sisters of the Assumption, who are in charge of the school, spared no time in training the children, and indeed their efforts were well repaid, for the program was on an elaborate scale and well rendered too.

Among the guests present besides the parents and friends of the pupils were: Mr. Arthur K. Walcott, superintendent of public schools, Mr. Frederick A. Wood, principal of the Greenhedge school, Mr. J. A. Carron, editor of "La Tribune" of Woonsocket, R. I., Rev. Frs. J. N. Jacques and R. A. Fortier, pastor and curate, respectively, of the parish, and many others.

The hall was beautifully decorated with streamers of the national colors, and the stage was a mass of potted plants and flowers, and the electrical effects among these decorations were splendid.

The entertainment program was started at 8 o'clock sharp and consisted of the following numbers:

Music, trio, "Grand Galop de Concert" by Herbert, Misses G. Lebrun, A. Baril, M. A. Asselin, P. Barbeau, M. Gauthier, E. Reglin, M. A. Beauregard, L. Lalonde, H. Tighe, A. Daigle, R. Ward, E. Cayer.

Each number was well rendered and many of the young performers received flowers. A very pleasing number on the program was the piano selection by three charming little misses, Camille Lebrun, Rosalba Cloutier and Grace Bertrand. Their ages vary from five to seven years, but despite their youth they captured the audience.

After the rendition of the program, Rev. J. N. Jacques, pastor of the parish, in a neat speech delivered the diplomas and prizes to the following graduates: Elzear Dionne, Laura Trudeau, Alice Ouellette, Wilfrid Boucher, Elmer Lacoste, Donald Dupuis, Ruth Lagasse, Rosa Ward, Eva Belleville, Fleur Ange Brousseau, Angeline Breaud, Irene Renaud, Helma Hamel, George Lemire, Napoleon Lemire, Rene Dion, Edith Dupuis, Charles Roussel, Antoinette Chaput, Annette Asselin, Oscar Gervais.

Each of the graduates received a gold medal, the latter being donated by their parents, and a diploma for English studies from the school and a diocesan honorable mention. The French diplomas were distributed to Laura Trudeau, Alice Ouellette, Elzear Dionne, Donald Dupuis, Annette Asselin and Eva Belleville.

Laura Trudeau and Elzear Dionne won the prizes given by Rev. J. N. Jacques for excellence in studies. The first prize for French studies donated by J. N. Jacques council, was won by Alice Ouellette. The prize for English studies donated by Rev. R. A. Fortier was awarded to Wilfrid Boucher; first prize for religious studies donated by the graduates of 1910, was awarded to Fleur Ange Brousseau; first prize for composition donated by Mr. C. E. Belanger, agent for the C. P. R. at Worcester, was won by Almer Lacoste.

Many other rich prizes too numerous to mention were distributed to the pupils.

After the presentation of the diplomas, etc., an address in French and one in English was given by Miss Ruth Lagasse and Mr. Wilfrid Boucher respectively.

WOMAN'S VIEWPOINT

MOST of the little quibbles which concern questions of taste are still conducted by the sex which has the better opportunity of reaching the ears of the majority. When any one of anything is worth denouncing the task is rarely allotted to a woman. Whatever may have been granted to feminine intelligence and capacity of judgment, the time has not come when it could be fairly said that women are established and recognized as a critical body. There are few, if any, forms of public amusement which are controlled by feminine authority. Hardly any developments in the arts that entertain are subject in the first instance to the approval of the sex to whose taste they are intended to appeal quite as much as to that of man. But this is not to say that questions of taste are decided with thoughtless ungallantry by those who seek to appeal to the world which desires to be interested and amused.

On the contrary, we are frequently told that books and plays are now increasingly written with a view to feminine approval. Pictures are painted in the hope that they will be bought by the husbands of the women they delight, and even the more material requirements of the pleasure seekers are catered for with the recollection that "she, too, will be there" when their excellence calls for admiration. This is, of course, flattering.

Being, on the whole, rather amiably disposed than otherwise, women have become accustomed to recognize such considerations with perhaps greater appreciation of the motive than the achievement. It might certainly seem ungracious if the sex for whom these pleasures, even surprises, are prepared were continually to call attention to their errors and shortcomings from the feminine point of view. A very little reflection must show that the position is in some cases bound to create embarrassment. The old idea of "something for the lady" in its modern development remains in many ways rather pathetic in women's eyes. It is for this reason no doubt that they prefer to accept with a feeling of gratitude what is being done for their amusement, pleasure and edification.

Possibly an unforeseen result of this attitude is now making itself felt. We are beginning to hear of the effects of women's "influence" on public entertainments of several kinds and not in terms that suggest its wholly happy outcome. It is now, however, that women are to be held up as rulers of taste. Having played no active and creative part in designing and making general amusements, those qualities which begin to displease are attributed to the feminine section of the public. Woman is, among other things, to be made the scapegoat where questions of taste have become questionable through masculine administration.

FRILLY FROCKS AGAIN.

The return of the rows of little frills at the hems of gowns for the summer season is already apparent. It is some time since this once most popular treatment was permitted.

Lovely Frocks For Midsummer Fete Wear

JEWELLED
TRIMMINGS

WHEN very simple styles are in fashion, as they have been for some months past and will be all through the summer months, it follows naturally that our gowns must be decorated with very handsome and artistic trimmings. It is interesting, therefore, to note that importers who have been noted for their exclusive novelties are now showing some exquisite bead trimmings, suitable either for afternoon or evening gowns, as well as lovely jeweled buttons and other accessories which give a note of distinction even to a perfectly plain costume.

The bead trimmings worked on wide or narrow bands of net are in lovely combinations of color, especially in the oriental effects, which are having a great vogue in Paris just now. Some of the designs are carried out in glistening beads, while others are in white china beads or dull wood beads, and sometimes silk embroideries are introduced into the pattern.

Girdles and hanging ornaments in antique gold or oxidized silver form another interesting feature of trimmings, and there are tassels, balls and acorns to match for millinery and other purposes where small hanging ornaments are effective. Antique galleons can also be bought by the yard, and there are gold and silver laces of every imaginable width at popular prices.

Handsome jeweled buttons set in oxidized silver are in great request this season, especially in sapphire blue and ruby red, the coronation colors, which are very much in evidence. Real tortoise shell buttons are extremely fashionable in Paris, and there are some novelties in wood and pearl buttons for tailor made costumes. Wooden beads for girdles and trimmings are offered in every imaginable color, and metal and glass beads are also a specialty.

For frocks and blouses of thin fabrics there are insertions of the new fillet lace, with motifs of different shapes and sizes to match, so that a scheme of decoration can be carried out all in the same design. The fashionable wide braids for morning dresses and plain tailor made are also offered in great variety in black and various colors.

Lace nets with threads of tinsel in them, now so much used for yokes and undersleeves, are sold by the yard, and there is also a very attractive collection of wide shoulder scarfs in satin, chiffon and net, very handsomely trimmed at the ends.

NO MORE "WOMAN HATERS."

As a masculine profession that of "woman hater" is heard of far less frequently than was formerly the case. One might be almost inclined to wonder what has become of all the enemies of womanhood if it were not for the possibility that they now conduct their business under another name. The woman hater, no doubt, was as fearsome a person as his name suggested, but at least he had the merit of fighting under colors which he meant to be true.

thing with each washing, and the same is true of all the crapelike fabrics.
CATHERINE TALBOT.

TRIMMED SAILOR HATS.

The big flat sailor hats, with brims slightly turning up all round or just a soupcon at the side, look very pretty with a graduated "wealth" of silken pompons in any color or shade—much newer than silk or satin flowers or bands of velvet. These pompons can also be made of chipped feather or marabou.

THE WASH RAG HAT

Designed by Ora Gie

THE wash rag hat! Yes, my lady, that is what the summer girl will be wearing instead of the erstwhile lingerie chapeau. It is a much more serviceable affair than the lawn and lace lingerie headgear, and after a rain you can really take it off and wring it out, as a facetious man suggested, although the designer had not that object in view when he invented the hat. The artistic possibilities of Turkish towelings have been successfully demonstrated, for nothing could be prettier than the soft, creamy fabric that blends so well with the fashionable colors. The dull surface of the towelings, which is used in cream, plain white and deep ecru, has a tendency to make the complexion look well, as the smooth glazed silks some way fail to do. To make the wash rag hat choose any wire frame that suits your face and cover it with a fine Turkish toweling of heavy pile. Trim the hat with an upstanding bow of velvet. The model hat was garnished with royal purple velvet. This simple trimming makes it easy to renew the covering of the hat whenever it becomes soiled.

THE little summer dress for afternoon wear is likely to cost paterfamilias a mint of money this season, for yards and yards of costly laces are being loaded on the simplest little dresses which require but four or five yards of material in the making.

There are of course clever imitations of the handsome clunkies, fillets and Irish laces which trim such costumes, but lace is a thing which bespeaks its quality in every thread, a cheap lace inevitably placing the frock on which

It is used in second place, no matter how many yards go into the pattern.

A simple lingerie frock may be picked up on the Rue de la Paix for about 700 francs ($140). If the frock is made to order or trimmed with a great deal of fashionable venise or Irish lace the price may easily run up to $300. One of the most beautiful frocks turned out in Paris this year is the embroidered voile and lace model pictured. All the embroidery on this frock was done by hand in Japan, the material having been sent there and returned for the finishing of the costume in Paris. Real Irish lace is cleverly combined with the embroidered voile, lace and embroidery blending exquisitely together. With this frock is worn a ray little lingerie bonnet of white val, shirred on a pink ribbon. The shape of the bonnet, unadorned, is a huge disk, the narrow val edging being sewed round and round like straw on a plume.

The embroidered net frock is less expensive, yet charmingly pretty, the net being in the fashionable ecru tone, with embroidery in white. The lining of this silk is in the pale ecru tone, and the hat and flower cluster at the belt are in shades of tan, mauve and rose red.

The picture containing two figures shows two charming summer afternoon frocks. That on the emulating figure is of voile, delicately embroidered with pink and white beads and pale pink cord couched to the fabric. The embroidered motifs follow the lines of the frock very gracefully, and these

On the seated figure is a smart linen frock in pale green, with Bulgarian embroidery in pastel shades of pink, green and rose.

The smart lingerie gown is no longer simply white. Embroideries of every hue are added to their loveliness until even the so called tub frocks are doubtful quantities, for absolutely fast colors, so far as colored embroideries are concerned, are impossible to find.

Not only is fading something to be guarded against, but there is the danger of shrinkage. The cotton voiles and marquisettes invariably lose some-

JETTED EVENING GOWN

THE craze for beaded material is exemplified in almost every branch of the couturiere's art. The elegant evening dress shown here is literally loaded with jet. The skirt, which is of soft white satin, is veiled with broadecaded nixon, crossed by broad bands of jetted net. The arrangement is such as to give a slender effect to the figure. The upper part of the bodice is of lace, with bands of net in appropriate patterns. Loops of jet beads and jetted ornaments are scattered over the costume, while beaded aligrets adorn the hair.

The revival of jet is of course due to the fact that the English court has been in mourning, and jetted gowns are worn not only by elderly and middle-aged beauties, but by fair young beauties, who realize the piquant charm given to their particular styles by these somber hued gowns with their subdued glitter and the soft fang of the beaded fringes and loops that tinkle whenever they walk like so many tiny bells out of tune.

DECORATIVE LIVING ROOMS

SIMPLICITY and space are the first things to remember when furnishing a dining room. Harmonious tones might be extended even to the very flowers which decorate the tables and to the shades of the lamps. If there be ornaments they had better be few and good. Everything ought to be arranged to give individually to each piece of furniture. The Japanese are never guilty of overcrowding, and they bring out their treasures and exhibit them singly in order to accentuate that beauty which would be lost in juxtaposition to other things of equal attractiveness.

A dining room may be oppressive if its warmth of decoration is overdone. In many rooms of moderate size with massive tables and sideboards and heavy draperies the tapestry of the chairs, the rich coloring of the carpet and the decorative wall paper have the effect of compressing and of enveloping. There seems no air to breathe, no space, no height, and yet the things may be harmonious, the colors in good taste. All is not in proportion, and somehow the effect is wrong.

The drawing room of the past was a room relegated to ghosts, for the dining room was often used as the sitting room as well. The vivid blue, green and red reps were lucased in hoiland covers. Indeed, they were far less conspicuous than on high days and holidays, when this most uncomfortable room was in general use.

However dainty and delicate the modern drawing room is, it is at least habitable and comfortable. It is generally a room of delicate harmonies and pretty decorative things. We are not nearly conscious enough of the cheering and restful effect of pink. A creamy carpet in which a rose pattern is plentifully displayed, with a cream-toned paper having a rose garland frieze, would be a good background for a few pieces of Sheraton furniture. The ideal drawing room ought to contain armchairs which are comfortable as well as elegant, and there can never be too many cushions. Ornaments and pictures ought to be few and distinctive.

Carefully carried out, an empire treatment of white and gold is a charming decorative scheme for a drawing room. There are shades of white which can give the effect of warmth and color. There is the old world drawing room also, with chintz covered walls and chintz covered chairs and old furniture which can be so delightful. Both the drawing room and the dining room are rooms devoted to general use. It is in one's own particular room, whether it be bedroom or boudoir, that individuality is developed. Girls might be encouraged when quite young to think for themselves and surround themselves with artistic and beautiful things for their own special sanctuaries.

CHARMING MANNERS

NOTHING plays a more important part in a woman's career than charm, yet nothing is more elusive or more difficult to describe. We know it when we meet it, we feel its influence; but, alas, if we do not possess it we can hardly hope to achieve it, for charm is a gift of the fairy godmother, one of the most precious of her gifts and one of the rarest. Youth and even health vanish with the passing years; riches have wings and too often fly away; beauty, we know, is but skin deep, but charm will last a lifetime.

If, however, we cannot get the vital spark, the real thing, we can still have nice, pleasing manners. Of course those who are born and bred in a certain atmosphere know instinctively what to do and what to leave undone. No one can be so rude or so "crushing" as your grande dame when she chooses, though no doubt she would say that she does not choose; that the unpleasant necessity is forced on her by circumstances. The ideal good manners, however, are largely tempered by the milk of human kindness, and, though the woman of the world should be dignified, she need not be rude.

It must be owned, though, that this is not an age of ideal manners. Very many people who ought to know better allow themselves to be very rude to those they do not know or whom they consider outside their own narrow circle. Then, too, they indulge in habits which not long ago would have been considered a shocking breach of good manners. Thus they put their elbows on the table, even at parties; they all talk at once, and, as to cultivating a soft and gentle voice, it is quite the fashion to shout at one's friends as if they were all deaf.

Repose of manner was considered at one time essential to the well bred woman, but this is an ideal long consigned to the past. Every one flutters in these days; no one has time to sit still or to listen for more than a minute at a time without being bored and showing it.

In fact, we seem to be getting back to where our ancestors started in this matter. They had no time for manners; neither have we, though for vastly different reasons.

THE CARE OF SHOES

BOOTS and shoes are like women—if they do not "grow old gracefully" the world has little use for them. Every sort of leather should have its individual treatment. Suede shoes, for instance, are generally considered hard to take care of because the suede becomes shiny. If suede shoes are brushed with a soft brush before and after wearing they will retain their freshness much longer than usual. When they do get to the point where further brushing is useless rub them long and vigorously with a stick of nitrate of silver, which will turn them into smooth leather all over. This leather must always have a dull polish. Do not hold the stick too long at any single spot or it will eat through the whole shoe.

Patent leather is another problem. Mere rubbing with the hand or with a soft bit of flannel is the remedy for the all too prevalent cracking. It is necessary to keep the leather soft and supple without losing its shine, and this is the best method to accomplish your end.

The waterproofing of shoes is a subject for an article in itself. Rubbing sweet oil into the cracks between soles and uppers is excellent, and so is placing the shoes on a plate of linseed oil. This makes the soles impervious to rain.

Another method of waterproofing soles is to warm them slightly and give them several coats of copal varnish, drying them after each coat.

When boots have become damp they should be taken off as soon as possible and stuffed with newspapers. Shoes that have been neglected and have hardened after a wetting should be rubbed with vasoline. Sweet oil or lard is better for very heavy walking shoes.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—The senate committee on statehood today voted 6 to 5 to report favorably the house resolution admitting Arizona and New Mexico to statehood with the provision that the Arizona constitution containing the judiciary recall shall be re-submitted to the people. Slight amendments to the house resolution were made.

BEAVER BROOK MILL AT COLLINSVILLE

Live Items of Interest From the Great Factories

It is expected that the new mill for the erection of which a permit was issued the Bigelow Carpet company a few days ago will be ready for occupancy in the fall. The foundation was built about two years ago. The new building will be known as mill No. 17 and will be built along the Pawtucket canal beginning near the rear of the Market street building and between mills No. 16 and 18. A reporter for The Sun, through the courtesy of Agent Thomas J. Fifth, visited the scene of building operations yesterday, and he found a big and a very busy gang of men engaged in the work of excavating. The new building which will be used as a dye-house will be of brick, steel and concrete construction. It will be 277 feet long and 45 feet wide. William H. McKillop of Pawtucket, R. I. are the contractors and they have an improvised office in the mill yards. C. T. Min is the architect and he is represented by Engineer C. G. Hill. The new mill will be identical with the mill completed last year. It will be three stories high.

Virtues of Coconut Oil
The virtues of pure coconut oil in the treatment of the hair and scalp have been known for many years all over the world. This oil is one of the ingredients in Birt's Head Wash. It is used in an unsaponified condition, and during the process of shampooing a certain portion of it is absorbed by the scalp. The free coconut oil makes Birt's Head Wash a better solvent of dirt than any plain soap can possibly be. As an example, if the hands are soiled with dirty engine grease, they can be cleaned perfectly with Birt's Head Wash, which would be impossible with hard soap, even when used with a scrubbing brush. The other ingredients in Birt's Head Wash are white of eggs, glycerin, salicylic acid and a refined soap body, every one of which is most excellent in treating dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair. In hygienic tubes 25c., at druggists.

ates about 68,000 spindles, so that the capitalization per spindle is less than $2.62. As a matter of fact, the net quick assets of the company at the end of the past calendar year were over $475,000, or almost $106 per share.

Making Union Suits
The Tremont & Suffolk company has been actively and profitably engaged in making union suits. This is practically a new departure for this company and the first public mention made of it appeared in The Sun. It will be remembered that the Tremont & Suffolk several months ago passed its assets, and at the time there was more or less criticism of this action of the directors. The stock dropped off to 10c, with the last sale taking place at 112. Little stock, however, came out on the decline; for, as a matter of fact, the Tremont & Suffolk stock is not widely distributed, and those who have it know its worth, and are content to wait until such time as the directors feel that the company is in a position to pay the extras.

Shaw Stocking Company
The Shaw Stocking company, it is stated, is having a revival of orders for stockings, and the company is now busy filling orders on the well known Boston garter, which enjoys such a wide distribution, and is so popular with the men. The Shaw Stocking company is another company which passed its dividend during the present year. Previous to this, however, this company paid regular dividends of 6 per cent, for many years.

The Middlesex Mills
The Middlesex, as most everybody knows, has taken out its woolen machinery and has started a knitting plant. Some of the company's buildings are occupied by the Merrimack Utilization company. This company's main building is a seven story structure and is admirably suited for their purposes. The demand for cotton waste increases as the price for raw cotton advances. With the present price of cotton, manufacturers are utilizing waste as much as possible. The Merrimack Utilization company handles many million pounds of waste per year. Various grades of cotton waste are purchased from the Massachusetts mills. Boott mills, Lawrence Manufacturing company, Hamilton Manufacturing company and the Merrimack Manufacturing company. This is properly sorted, cleaned and conditioned, and is then sold in open market. Floor sweepings containing miscellaneous grades of waste, much dirt, straw and foreign matter are purchased by the Utilization company, and the good cotton reclaimed. Bales of sweepings, which apparently contain little or no good cotton, yield much which may be used for spinning.

Collinsville Mill
The Beaver Brook mills at Collinsville, as was stated in The Sun a few days ago, are about to start up on full time on a large order just received. The Beaver Brook mills are owned by the American Woolen company. The directors of the American Woolen company have declared a regular quarterly dividend of one and three-quarter per cent on the preferred stock payable July 15, 1911, to stockholders of record June 23, 1911. American Woolen preferred is now selling around 95.

The bride was becomingly attired in white silk and carried bride roses. The couple were unattended. There were guests present from St. Johnsbury, Vt., Nashua, N. H., Wilmington and Natick. THE FRATERNITIES

CHARLES A. WELLS, N. G. Centralville Lodge

Centralville Lodge, I. O. O. F. Its History and Officers

In the latter part of 1891, the matter of organizing a lodge of Odd Fellows in Centralville began to be agitated by our late esteemed brother, Arthur H. Cluer. The suggestion met with great favor and on the 15th of March, 1892, one of the largest Odd Fellows Lodges ever instituted in the Grand Officers of the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts. The seven original members under the requirements of the laws of the order were: John W. Stewart, Charles W. Nevers, Henry J. Eacott, George L. Adams, Daniel A. Munson, Herbert C. Pearson and Herbert R. Baker. The total number of members in the lodge when instituted was 24 and there were added in the first three years 156.

The first board of officers was composed of the following: John W. Stewart, N. G., Harris C. Pearson, R. S., Henry J. Eacott, treasurer; George L. Adams, warden; D. A. Munson, I. S. G., Herbert R. Baker, O. G. G. For a few months the lodge met in a small hall in Puffer's block on the west side of Bridge street, but that effort the S. E. block, property on the west side of Bridge street, was bought, the buildings were changed over to serve the purposes of the lodge and the new quarters were opened with a grand ball which netted $1700. This sum was used for furnishing the hall, and the first public installation of the officers of the lodge was held in the new quarters on January 11, 1893. Thus in nine months after it was instituted, the lodge had grown to a membership of over 100, had purchased and built a hall, the entire cost of which was about $25,000.

The Centralville Rebekah lodge was instituted with 137 members on October 10, 1893. Centralville lodge has been prominent in all the work of the order in Lowell. It has fulfilled the purposes for which it was organized, exemplified in the symbol of the three links and expressed in the words Friendship, Love and Truth. It has held many social occasions, excursions, and has entertained and visited many sister lodges. We quote from the historical address given on the occasion of the tenth anniversary, March 12, 1902, these words relating to that brother, now deceased, to whom the lodge owes more than to any other individual:

"It is to our genial, faithful friend, Past Grand A. H. Cluer, that this lodge owes a debt of gratitude. From the time when the idea of organizing the lodge was advanced by him all through the hard work of preparing the petition for the charter and in the purchase and reconstruction of this building; for our purposes, in the degree work and in every social and sorrowful event which has marked our history, he has been an earnest and willing worker. To him belongs the title, 'Father of Centralville lodge.'"

One of the oldest members of the lodge is Mr. Carlos E. Bohanan of 45 Chase avenue. The venerable gentleman entered the lodge on March 15, 1892, after observing his 64th birthday. He is now 82 years of age, and deeply interested in the things of the lodge. The lodge now has 37 members on its membership roll and is in the best of financial condition. Its present noble grand, Mr. Charles A. Wells, is an active Odd Fellow and during his term of office, the lodge has made good advancement.

The other officers are all very much devoted to the lodge, the list follows: Noble grand, Charles A. Wells; vice grand, Linwood V. Sanders; recording secretary, Thomas M. Smith; financial secretary, George R. Lockwood; treasurer, Edward E. Perry; warden, Chas. S. Chaplain; conductor, Clarence E. Clark; chaplain, Arthur P. Atwood; R. S. G., H. H. Richardson; I. S. G., George Foster; O. G. G., N. G., Frederick A. Tibbitts; L. S. of N. G., John E. Deane; R. S. of V. G., Fred H. Bert C. Jones; L. S. of V. G., Fred H.

SURPRISE FR. BARETTE COURTS TO MERGE

Parishioners Present General Darling Will Gifts to Curate Lose Position
Rev. Fr. Antoine Barette, O. M. I., curate at Notre-Dame de Lourdes church, was given the surprise of his life last night, when the parishioners presented him several gifts. It was organized at first as a whist party for the parish funds, but later

BOSTON, June 24.—The consolidation of the United States circuit court with the United States district court, originally scheduled for July 1, will not take place until Jan. 1. While generally regarded as the enlargement of the district court into a court, government officials in Boston look upon the change virtually as the creation of a new federal tribunal. Frank H. Mason, who has been clerk of the United States district court for years, will become clerk of the merged court, and Gen. Charles K. Darling, clerk of the circuit court, will lose his berth. In April, 1908, Gen. Darling resigned as United States marshal, which carried a salary of $5000, to accept the circuit court of appeals clerkship at a salary of $2500 and other emoluments in the shape of fees. He was appointed to succeed the late John C. Stetson of Roxbury, who had been clerk 41 years. Soon after he succeeded Alexander H. Trowbridge as clerk of the circuit court, Mr. Trowbridge having resigned. His present salary is $5000 and fees.

Under the so-called Moon bill, however, the circuit courts throughout the United States are to be abolished and all the books and records are to be turned over to the clerks of the district courts. This is an act to codify, revise and amend the laws relating to the judiciary.

THE LOWELL MASONS Are Being Well Entertained at Bath, Me.

BATH, Me., June 24.—Dunlap commandery, Knights Templars of this city, entertained about 150 members of Pilgrim commandery of Lowell, Mass., here yesterday in honor of St. John's day. The visitors arrived by special train about noon and were met by Dunlap Commandery. A musical program was given by the bands and then came the exchange of badges. This was followed by a parade about the principal streets of Bath, ending at the home of John McInnes, where a reception and banquet was held. At five o'clock the members of both commanderies boarded the steamer Winthorne for a sail to Popple beach, where the night was spent.

Today's program included an inspection of the new fortification at the mouth of the Kennebec river at Port Baldwin, where an exhibition of the new disappearing gun was given by a squad from Co. D of the 1st company, C. A. C. under command of Capt. Geo. A. Baker. This will be followed by a motor clambake. The day promises to be the biggest in the history of Popple beach, for Gardner commandery also entertains a large number of guests at the same resort. Dunlap and Pilgrim commanderies will return tonight.

THREE MESSAGES
Sent to Legislature by Governor Foss
BOSTON, June 24.—Gov. Foss sent his 60th, 61st and 62 messages to the legislature yesterday, transmitting the report of Clinton H. Scovell on the public service commissions, the report of H. L. Coe on the adjutant general's department and H. L. Coe's report on the state house expenses.

The governor's message on the public service commission is largely an amplification of the recommendations contained in his inaugural message urging the consolidation of the railroad commission, the gas and electric light commission, the highway commission and the Boston transit commission into a single commission. "The report indicates," the governor says, "that our present state regulation of public utilities does not safeguard the public; that the policy of the state is narrow and short-sighted in regard to such control and that a remedy may be found either in giving each commission broader power, or combining all these commissions into a single public service commission with powers broad enough to cover the whole field of public utilities. The present imperfect work of our commissions leaves the public unable to determine even the faithfulness of its public servants. In regard to the adjutant general's department the governor recommends that the state auditor should be required to draw up a form of accounts for the military department and cooperate with the adjutant general in putting the finances of that department into shape."

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

FIRST GLASS FACTORY

JUNE 24.—The making of glass was a well established industry among the Egyptians as far back as 4000 B. C. This is proven by rude pictures of glass blowers at work, which are found in tombs and ruined palaces in the land of the Pharaohs. Evidence of glass making in Phoenicia, Assyria and Babylon has been discovered, and Persia, China and India have been included in the enterprise. All the modern countries of the world have their glass manufacturing plants set up almost as soon as the kitchen stove. In the early days of populating America the glass maker came with the plowman and small factories were started in a number of places. None were of a permanent class, however. William Penn alludes to a Quaker glass house having made glass and beads for the Indians in 1683 but the demand for beads was not strong enough to make the venture pay. The first permanent glass factory in the United States was opened in Brooklyn, N. Y., on June 24, 1773. A Dutch gentleman named Bamber made the first bottle and his name was blown in it. Mr. Bamber's heirs could have gotten a percentage on what has been "blown in" since by the use of the bottle, they could take a summer vacation.

THE MYSTIC NOBLES

Will Go to Boston on July 2nd

Lowell Caravan No. 3, Mystic Nobles of Granada, is preparing for a monster initiation on Sunday, July 2nd, in Granada hall, Boston, and indications point to a big attendance from this city. The officers of the local caravan have been working diligently, getting things in shape for their visit to Boston, and about seventy-five members will be as a result of the initiation added to the local body.

Organizer Thomas H. Cummings of New York was in Lowell yesterday and conferred with the local officers. Owing to the fact that several other caravans in New England had planned events for July 2nd, there was some doubt as to whether or not the degree work at the club would materialize on the date specified. In a telegram received today by Dr. Wm. M. Collins, grand monarch, from Supreme Monarch Allen, the latter states positively that the initiation will take place as scheduled in Boston. In connection with the initiation the Boston men have made elaborate preparations for a banquet. Over 1000 covers will be laid.

DAMAGE IS $35,000

Sandford Hall in Medway Was Destroyed

MEDWAY, June 24.—Sandford hall, a three story wooden building at Medway square, occupied by the post-office, the savings bank, the Dean library, and Ellsworth's grocery was burned to the ground early this morning with a loss estimated at $35,000. The fire started in rooms of the upper floor, where the local lodge of Odd Fellows had been holding a banquet during the evening and had worked through the flooring into the library on the second floor when discovered. The town's fire brigade turned out with the hand tub and volunteers saved the mails when assistance was requested from Milford, where a steam engine was secured that contained the blaze to the single building.

THE LAWRENCE GRAFT CASES

SALEM, June 24.—Although 24 hours had elapsed since they were given the case, there was no indication at 10.40 a. m. today that the jury considering the evidence in the case of the four men indicted for conspiracy to defraud the city of Lawrence would report a verdict.

The juryman presented a sadly bedraggled and tired appearance when they went to breakfast today after an all night session. During the night the sound of heated argument floated through the door of the jury room.

The men on trial are Patrick Lyons, superintendent of streets of Lawrence; Michael Flynn, a clerk in the Lawrence street department; Phillip Holland and Fred Snow, paving block contractors.

The jury left the court and went to their homes. So far as could be learned at the court house no sealed verdict was left, and it was the general opinion that no verdict had been reached and that acting under instructions the jury concluded their deliberations at 12 o'clock. It is expected that the verdict will be given in court at 9.30 a. m. on Monday.

Carmichael; spray of white pinks and ferns, Mr. and Mrs. Christy; spray of white roses and ferns, Mrs. Clara E. Stevens; spray of pinks and ferns, Miss Della Higgins. Burial took place in St. Patrick's cemetery under the direction of Undertaker John J. O'Connell.

HUSSAN.—The funeral of Abraham Hussan took place this morning from the funeral parlors of M. H. McDonough Sons, Gorham street, and was largely attended by friends from Lawrence. Burial was in the Edison cemetery, where services were held. Undertakers M. H. McDonough Sons in charge.

Stillman Safety Lantern

It is only necessary to recall the fire which totally destroyed the barn and killed a valuable horse belonging to Paul Vigeant, the well known grain dealer, to convince every user of lanterns, that they should be provided with a SAFETY LANTERN that is SAFE.

If Mr. Vigeant had dropped a Stillman Lantern that fire would not have happened, because the Stillman Lantern cannot explode. It goes out if dropped. It safely stands the roughest handling and is odorless. Let the horse kick it over—who cares. Price 85c
